Good Citizen; Good Son
Thankful? VERY
To Kill Gorillas
Giannini Methods

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

S. DAVIES WARFIELD, head of the Seaboard Air Line, an admirable worker for his country, was buried yesterday in Baltimore.

His life of energetic work and building earned the respect and gratitude of his fellow citizens. And they learn with admiration the use to which he puts his fortune of several millions.

The money will be used to found a home for dependent aged women, in memory of Mr. Warfield's mother, who died many years ago.

A PROCLAMATION by the president fixes Nov. 24 as Thanksgiving Day and mentions some things for which we should be thankful, such as "greater knowledge of the higher values of life" and "advancement in our physical well being."

It may also be mentioned that we are still OUT of the league of nations, prosperity continues, high wages HAVEN'T gone down, while the cost of living HAS gone down.

We may praise the Lord, for we are fearfully and wonderfully fortunate.

EVERY prospect pleases. Foreigners buy from us, although our money is high in value.

In September we exported 33,748,000 bushels of wheat, 10,048,000 bushels more than September, 1926. We got, this year, $13,355,000 more than for last year's September wheat exports.

We should be grateful for our blessings.

MISS ALICE O'BRIEN, with a rich father, able to do as she pleases, wants "to hear African drums vibrating through the tropical jungles along the shores of the Congo," and see "the weird ceremonies of an African witch doctor."

Most interesting, the young girl thinks she is going to kill gorillas.

THAT a young girl should want to kill gorillas is not unusual, but we should shudder if we heard that a young gorilla was coming north to kill human girls.

Miss O'Brien, of course, will not really kill any gorilla. Looking into the dark, strange face, she could not shoot. She will visit King Musinga, last of many African potentates, seven feet two inches tall, rich, handsome, with 20 wives—not many, in that climate.

THE powerful Bank of Italy hands to its stockholders a dividend of 300,000 shares. Two hundred and fifty thousand other shares will be offered to stockholders at $180 a share and the Bancitaly Corporation will buy 250,000 shares at the same price. The Giannini brothers, with their 165 different branch banks in California, buying banks rapidly throughout the country, are teaching old-fashioned finance some new methods.

* * *

JACK DEMPSEY, who fights and lives to fight another day, can't pay his manager, Mr. Flynn, all he would like to because, says Mr. Dempsey, "I am not making big money and can't afford to give them everything they want."

Dempsey made about $500,000 in 30 minutes the other day and will soon make $500,000 in 30 more minutes or less again. But you can't call that BIG money for a "heavyweight."

* * *

SOME clergymen that work very hard for smaller pay will be inclined to quote:

"Now, in the names of all the gods at once,
Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed,
That he is grown so great?"

Nevertheless, when you have become accustomed to earning a million dollars in 30 minutes, it is hard to be cut down to half a million.

THE heirs of an Indian rajah of Bhopal offer for sale in New York a collection of carved emeralds. One weighing 3,500 karats is carved to represent a Chinese woman. The price, should you want to buy something for Christmas, is $500,000. The value of the stone is largely spoiled by the fact that it is intricately carved instead of being polished and let alone.

That's what happens often to careful writing. Too much fancy carving when reasonable polishing would be better.

OHIO WEATHER

Cloudy, probably showers in north portions tonight and Saturday. Not so cool in south portions tonight. Slightly cooler along the lake tonight and in northeast portions Saturday.

COURT BLOCKS WILD RUSH TO DUVALL'S SEAT

Indianapolis Judge Restrains Newly-Appointed Controller from Holding Post

THREE OTHERS SEEK JOB

Mayor Quits, Wife Succeeds, Makes Appointment, Then Resigns

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 28—Judge Joseph M. Milner of Marion County Superior Court today issued a temporary order restraining Ira M. Holmes, who was bequeathed the mayoralty of Indianapolis by John L. Duvall, from attempting to occupy the office.

A hearing on the order was scheduled for Saturday.

The order makes Claude E. Negley, elected mayor by city council, mayor, at least for today.

Joseph L. Hogue, city controller under former Mayor Lew Shank, who preceded Duvall in office, and Walter Meyers, Democratic candidate who was defeated by Duvall, also were planning action today to gain the reins of city government. Both claims are based on the supposition Duvall never was mayor, an account of irregularities in his election.

Woman Is Mayor

For the first time in Indianapolis history a woman was mayor yesterday, though only for the scratch of a pen. When Duvall resigned his wife became mayor. She immediately appointed Holmes, then tendered her resignation.

The change which gave Indianapolis two city governments came after a night replete with dramatic surprises. Friends of Negley, unaware that the mayor had resigned, spent the night seeking a superior court justice, for a writ to oust Duvall. A police squad loyal to Duvall guarded the offices in the city hall from early yesterday afternoon against encroachment by Negley supporters, and continued on the job in support of Holmes.

However, Police Chief Claude Worley was said to be aligned with the faction supporting Negley's claim.

Holmes, a prominent criminal attorney of Indianapolis, headed the defense staff of D. C. Stephenson, during the ex-klan dragon's trial at Noblesville, for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer.

All Want Seat

However, Holmes was undismayed in his pursuit of the seat. Arriving at the mayor's office at 4 a. m., with Mrs. Holmes and Wayne Emmelman, whom Holmes appointed city controller, Holmes held down the mayor's seat.

When the pangs of hunger assailed him at 7:45 a. m., he retired for breakfast, first leading Mrs. Holmes to the mayor's chair as a precautionary measure.

Shortly afterwards, Negley and Frank Cones, the Negley city controller, arrived and went into Duvall's private office.

But Mrs. Holmes continued to occupy the official chair.

CHAMBERLIN MAY BE ASKED TO FLY SHIP

Mrs. Grayson Goes to Boston for Conference with Daring Airman

Old Orchard Beach, Me., Oct. 28—Clarence D. Chamberlin, the intrepid American airman who carried Charles A. Levine overseas on the epochal long distance flight from New York to Germany, may be drafted for the Old Orchard to Copenhagen, Denmark, hop, it was learned today.

Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, who has tried three times unsuccessfully to make Denmark in the Sikorsky amphibian plane "The Dawn," announced that she was going to Boston this afternoon, and it was learned that she had an engagement to meet Chamberlin at a Boston hotel.

Whether Chamberlin will be asked or has consented to take the place of Pilot Wilmer L. Stultz or whether the overseas flyer is to act only in an advisory capacity was not known. Stultz, however, has announced his intention of quitting the Grayson expedition owing to a disagreement between commander and pilot, and the conclusion here was that Chamberlin was to take Stultz's place at the controls of "The Dawn."

NAVY OFFICERS DIE WHEN PLANES CRASH

Two Killed in Accident Above Pensacola Air Station

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 28—Lieuts. E. R. Frawley and W. J. McCord, of the Pensacola Naval Air station, were instantly killed today when their planes locked together about 1,000 feet above Pensacola and crashed.

One of the planes landed on the home of T. C. Willis, while the other struck the house of a negro nearby. Both houses were damaged.

It was necessary to cut the bodies out of the two Curtis-Hawk pursuit planes which the officers were piloting. Both were married and had families.

An investigation was ordered by the Naval Board of Inquiry.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER KILLED

Columbus, Oct. 28—Cecil Williams, 20, of Westerville, died in Grant Hospital here early this morning from injuries ssutained late Thursday when a C. and O. passenger train hit the motorcycle which he was riding.

BATTLE IN ROUMANIA

DEFENSE TALKS STIR CAPITAL

Administration Embroiled in Row as Officials Speak Out of Turn

Washington, Oct. 28—The administration has become embroiled in a row over the condition of national defense that threatens to make the oncoming session of congress full of fireworks, with "Coolidge economy" the target for heavy cannonading.

A swarm of inquiring letters descending upon government officials from all parts of the country, criticism from within the army and navy and demands by members of congress for facts, indicated a greater interest in the question of preparedness than at any time since the World War.

Circles Seething

The case of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who was summarily deposed from his Philadelphia command for criticism of the navy and who was promptly denied a hearing by President Coolidge, promised to assume greater proportions when he comes here on Nov. 5 "for discipline."

Administration circles were seething with discussion of the criticisms of the state of the national defense by Assistant Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson and Assistant Secretary of War Hanford MacNider. Nor was criticism of army housing conditions by Major General Summerall, recalled from a Pacific coast speaking tour, forgotten.

Predictions were freely made by members of congress that preparedness would become a major issue, taking its place in the coming session with tax reduction and farm and flood relief.

FREE DENTAL CLINIC MAY BE ABANDONED

Dr. E. H. Raffensperger Says Lack of Charity Patients Is Responsible

Today witnessed the close of the free dental clinic which was established at City Hospital on July 22 in connection with the free medical dispensary. Dr. E. H. Raffensperger who operated the clinic today, said that tonight would complete the second round of the schedule established when the clinic was opened and the clinic will very likely be discontinued.

So few charity patients have applied for treatment that dentists do not deem it necessary to continue the clinic longer, he said.

Dentists who did the work free, operated at the clinic from 8:30 to 12 o'clock on each Friday. Those who volunteered their services were Dr. A. B. Lawson, Dr. E. W. Imbody, Dr. V. C. Kissel, Dr. F. R. Mann, Dr. J. E. Crawmer, Dr. A. F. Linscott, Dr. Thuma, Dr. C. B. Emery, Dr. O. M. Young and Dr. E. H. Raffensperger.

DECISION AWAITED

Youngstown, Oct. 28—A decision in the case of W. M. Carney, charged with assault and battery upon Paul Morris, former board of education member, was expected to be handed down today by Justice of the Peace Frank Williams. Submission of evidence in the case was concluded here late Thursday.

MARION WOMAN IN AUTO CRASH DIES OF HURTS

Mrs. John H. Stoll Succumbs in Hospital at Mt. Vernon

THREE OTHERS INJURED

Advanced Age of Victim Believed To Have Hastened End

Injuries sustained Wednesday afternoon on the Fredericksburg-rd, near Mt. Vernon, when the machine in which she and three other persons were riding, crashed into a mailbox, proved fatal to Mrs. John H. Stoll, 78, whose death occurred at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Mt. Vernon Sanitorium Hospital.

The body is being brought to Marion this afternoon, according to word received here by relatives.

Mr. Stoll, who also was injured in the accident, was removed to this city this afternoon. Slight injuries were sustained by Mrs. Howard R. Stoll, Ellis-ct, daughter-in-law of the accident victim, and Mrs. Tracy R. Allen, 320 Franklin-st, other occupants of the car.

Dies of Shock

Mrs. Stoll, who resided at 315 Mt. Vernon-av, sustained a compound fracture of the right wrist, two fractured ribs and her head and chest were severely cut and bruised. Immediate cause of death was attributed to shock. Mr. Stoll's injuries were body sprains and bruises. His condition is not regarded as serious.

The accident occurred when the car, a sedan owned by Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Stoll, and being driven by Mrs. Stoll, overturned when Mrs. Stoll swerved it to the side of the road to avoid a collision with another car coming over the crest of an incline in the highway. A car parked along the road obstructed her view, it was said, so that she failed to see the approaching machine until it was a short distance away.

Born in Marion

Mrs. Stoll, formerly Miss Harriett Ann Robbins, had been a resident of Marion all her life, having been born in the old Robbins residence which stood on the present site of the Prospect Street M. E. Church. She was born Jan. 27, 1849, and was the daughter of William and Camelia Salmon Robbins. She was a member of the Christian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoll were married about 47 years ago near Marion. Mr. Stoll has conducted a shoe store in Marion for nearly 50 years.

Surviving are her husband, a son, Howard R. Stoll, Ellis-ct, and a sister, Mrs. C. E. Miller, St. Joseph, Mo. A daughter preceded her in death.

MUSSOLINI WARNS OPPONENTS OF ITALY

Cites Massing of Armed Legions; Facism's Anniversary Observed

Rome, Oct. 28—"The culmination of our work is completed with the massing of your armed legions, whose gathering will be a solemn warning to whosoever harbors the folly of thinking to impede our progress," declared Premier Mussolini today in a stirring message for the fifth anniversary of the Fascist march upon Rome.

The actual date of the anniversary falls tomorrow, but the duce ordered it postponed until Sunday so that a working day would not be lost.

Another sentence of the message was: "Not in words but in work do we celebrate this anniversary."

Fascist demonstrations will be held throughout Italy on Sunday.

DOWNTOWN CHICAGO IN PANIC BY BLAST

Wrecked Building Between Two Theaters; Little Damage Done by Fire

Chicago, Oct. 28—A mysterious blast followed by fire in a five-story building directly across Clark-st from the city hall and county building, threw downtown Chicago into a panic early today.

The wrecked building stood between two theaters, the Erlanger and the Four Cohans. Both were threatened by flames. The fire did little damage as the four upper floors of the building were unoccupied. The ground floor is an Italian restaurant.

Police are checking the ruins for possible victims and to ascertain the origin of the blast. The fire started on the fourth floor.

Bits of plate glass windows were thrown across the street by the blast.

YALE FRESHMEN HELD IN FATAL MOTOR CRASH

New York, Oct. 28—Gerald H. Howell, 22, Yale freshman, son of B. Hunting Howell, former champion oarsman of England, now a New York sugar broker, today was held under $1,000 bond charged with being criminally responsible for the death of Miss Frances B. Thomas, 20, of Martinsburg, W. Va.

Miss Thomas was killed following the Yale-Army football game last Saturday in a motor crash at Milford, near here. The accident occurred on the notorious Milford "death pike" that has claimed 25 lives since January.

CHIEF JUSTICE OF OHIO TO TALK AT MEMORIAL

FEAR DEAD IN SHIP SINKING MAY REACH 500

Nearly 350 Persons Have Not Been Landed, According to Reports

SURVIVORS DAZED

Refugees Aboard Vessel Present Pitiable Sight; Little Food on Hand

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 28—Dazed and horror-stricken by the frightful experience they have passed through, 912 survivors of the sunken Italian liner, Principessa Mafalda, have arrived in the ports of Bahia and Rio Janeiro.

The exact number of missing still is unknown, but 346 persons have not been landed, although the officers of the Navigazione Gerenale Italiana still claim that the death list will be far below this figure.

The Dutch steamer Athena with 531 passengers and seamen of the Principessa Mafalda came into port early this morning and began discharging her cargo of excited and harrowed survivors, and the French steamer Formosa followed shortly with 353 others.

Both ships carried many injured survivors. Ambulances and physicians met them. The survivors were removed to hospitals, and hotels and given food and drink, for they had been nearly two days huddled and jammed aboard the overloaded rescue steamers with insufficient food.

Sea of Floating Humanity

Journalists were forbidden to interview arriving survivors but alongside the ships it was still possible to hear the moans and cries of injured and nerve-exhausted survivors. Some of the survivors were anxious to describe the terrible scenes they had witnessed. They told of a sea of floating humanity, some people fighting for their lives as they were tossed about by the waves, whereas others had given up the battle and their bodies, thrown hither and thither, impeded the efforts of those still alive.

One report that came from the survivors was that the first engineer had committed suicide as soon as he learned that the Mafalda was sinking.

Reports of sharks attacking the victims of the disaster, first reported in International News Service dispatches from Bahia, were repeated today by some of the passengers of the ship aboard the arriving rescue boats.

One survivor, Senor Cassek, an Argentine banker, says that the ship

JAPAN IS ALARMED BY VIOLENT QUAKE

Forty-Three Separate Quakes in Central and Northern Parts

Tokio, Oct. 28—Violent earthquake shocks continued to alarm residents of central and northern Japan today. Forty-three separate shocks were recorded in the prefecture of Niigata. Inhabitants of this vicinity have remained outside of their houses for the past 36 hours. No additional damage has been reported.

The town of Gifu was reported to have been badly shaken by the succession of temblors, but reports said that no serious damage had occurred.

SCHWAB SAYS STEEL ORDERS ON INCREASE

Expectations Are Gradually Being Realized, Gary's Successor Asserts

New York, Oct. 28—Expectations of an increased volume of orders in the steel industry are gradually being realized, Charles M. Schwab, newly-elected president of the American Iron & Steel Institute declared today at the meeting of the institute.

Assuming the role of spokesman for the steel industry as did his predecessor, the late Elbert H. Gary, Schwab said that business had improved and that there has been a heavier tonnage of orders and specifications in the past week.

CASE IS NEARLY READY FOR JURY

Wilbur Hand, Alleged Bank Bandit, May Know Fate by Nightfall

(Special to The Star)

Bucyrus, Oct. 28—That Wilbur Hand, Toledo, charged with participation in the $175,000 holdup of the Galion Commercial Savings Bank on June 28 last, may know his fate by nightfall was considered likely here at noon today, when summation of the case had been more than half completed by the prosecution and the defense.

"Guilty" Verdict Asked

During the morning session, the jury listened to the arguments of two members of the state counsel, Prosecutor Louis Kreiter and Attorney E. J. Myers, who asked that a verdict of guilty be returned because of Cashier E. B. Beall's identification of Hand as one of the bank bandits. Attorney O. W. Kennedy called the jury's attention to the alibi testimony presented in Hand's behalf by Harry Zillick, his alleged partner in banditry, and a half dozen other Toledoans and asked for a verdict of acquittal.

Former Crawford County Prosecutor Chester Meck, a member of the prosecution staff, and Attorney George Bryce of Toledo, defending Hand, were to speak this afternoon.

State Witnesses on Stand

The trial was resumed here this morning for the third day with state's rebuttal witnesses on the stand. Five of the state's witnesses, four of them bank employes, identified Harry Zillick as one of the bandits, late yesterday.

Hand testified yesterday that he and Zillick were playing golf on the Bay View links at Toledo at the time of the robbery. He attempted to tell of his having been identified as one of the Defiance Bank robbers and of his alleged personal differences with a state bankers' detective, but was barred from so doing by the court.

PLANES ORDERED TO BLOCK MINE RIOTS

Industrial Paralysis Predicted Soon in Colorado as Result of Strike

Denver, Oct. 28 — Three national guard airplanes were ordered today to the strike zone of the coal miners in southern Colorado by Gov. William H. Adams.

Machine guns, bombs and reserve ammunition will be placed on board and will be used to prevent riots.

Reserve supplies of gasoline will be carried on the planes so that no landings will be necessary. Air headquarters will be established at Pueblo.

Industrial paralysis was predicted to be in the immediate future today. Announcement made by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. stated that one-third of their plant at Pueblo would have to be shut down for lack of coal, throwing out of work 2,000 men. It was also stated if the strike continued for any great length of time the entire plant would run out of coal.

The announcement of the C. F. & I. is considered by officials only a forerunner of what may be a complete industrial tieup in Colorado should the strike continue.

HARDING MEMORIAL NOT TO BE LIGHTED AT NIGHT, DECISION

Plans for Illuminating Tomb and Grounds Abandoned at Meeting of Executive Board; Only Names, Birth and Death Dates To Appear on Monument

Two important decisions regarding details of final plans for the Harding Memorial tomb were made by the executive committee of the Harding Memorial Association held here last night.

The committee definitely greed that no lighting equipment shall be installed to illuminate the tomb or grounds at night and also decided that the tomb shall bear only one brief inscription, which will be chiseled on the rear inside marble wall near the place where the bodies of President Harding and wife are entombed.

The inscription will include merely the names of President and Mrs. Harding, designating him as the twenty-ninth president, and give the dates of their births and deaths.

No lettering is to appear on the exterior of the memorial, the committee decided.

Agreement that the tomb and the grounds surrounding it will not be lighted was reached after considerable discussion. The decision was based on the point that a memorial is designated primarily as a tribute of respect to the dead and not for the purpose of show or display.

Architects Here

All local members of the committee, Henry Hornbostle of Pittsburgh, architect who designed the tomb and is supervising its construction, and A. D. Taylor of Cleveland, landscape architect, were present at the meeting, held in the office of Hoke Donithen.

The committee had intended to award the contract for landscaping of the memorial grounds but final action was postponed several days to give Mr. Taylor time to summarize the bids. About a dozen bids were received, all submitting prices on planting of trees and shrubbery.

Mr. Taylor expects to submit his final report within a few days and contract for the landscaping will be let immediately, it was stated today. Mr. Donithen of the executive committee said that a large part of the landscaping will be done before winter.

Architect Hornbostle informed the committee that he will urge the Georgia Marble Co., which has the contract for all marble work on the tomb, to push its operations rapidly so that completion of the construction will be assured at an early date.

Exterior Finished

Construction of the exterior was finished Wednesday and the marble company's men are now at work on the interior. A part of the scaffolding used in the outside construction has been removed. The contractors intend to keep the remainder of the scaffolding in place for the purpose of using it in final finishing work on the outside of the tomb. The surface of the marble is to be polished up and cleaned and polished with water and steel brushes.

WARNS STEEL MAY FACE BITTER FIGHT

Banker Urges Closer Relations Between Mills and Fabricators

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 28—Warning that the steel industry in America may at any moment encounter a bitter struggle to protect its own home market from encroachment of the European steel cartels, was sounded here by O. H. Cheney, New York banker, before the American Institute of Steel Construction, in session here.

Cheney, who is vice president of the American Exchange, Irving Trust Co., urged closer relations between the steel mills and the fabricators, eradication of unprofitable competition within the industry, more research and advertising, and promotion of structural steel frames for small homes, as means to consolidate the industry's strength against competition from abroad and from other domestic industries.

"Our American steel leaders have been telling the world that we have nothing to fear from English and continental competition, and that European steel cartels know that the American steel industry is not to be trifled with," declared Cheney. "What would happen if a powerful combination of foreign steel producers would feel Americans have been 'kidding' themselves and all their bluff? It does not take a big volume of imported fabricated steel to upset prices."

INVESTIGATE FIRE

$10,000 Damage Done to Mansfield Homes and Grocery

Mansfield, Oct. 28—Authorities here today were investigating a fire, originating mysteriously in an explosion in a grocery store, which wrecked two residences and did damage totaling $10,000 before it was checked. The store was owned by Pasquale Lasasso. Fire Chief William Remy reported the blast evidently was not caused by a bomb or by gas.

In another explosion here Mrs. Frank Pillegi and her four-year-old son, Donald, were injured. The child, playing with matches, set off a can of gasoline.

FORMER VICE PRESIDENT OF EXCHANGE IS DEAD

New York, Oct. 28—Found unconscious on the street, Charles M. Newcombe, 60, former vice president of the New York Stock Exchange, died in Bellevue Hospital today from cerebral hemorrhage. He had suffered a stroke of apoplexy, physicians said.

Newcombe was director of the J. W. Davis and Co., brokerage firm. Mrs. Newcombe and their son, Charles M., Jr., reached the bedside before his death.

C. T. MARSHALL TO COME HERE ARMISTICE DAY

Will Address Ohio Council of Republican Women at Harding Tomb

1,000 ARE EXPECTED

Delegation Will Motor to City from Columbus in 300 Cars

Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall, of the Ohio Supreme Court, will speak at memorial services to be conducted Armistice day at the tomb of the late President Warren G. Harding by the Ohio Council of Republican Women as the opening event of their two-day meeting in Columbus, Nov. 11 and 12. Headquarters of the Council will be at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel.

Justice Marshall

Columbus Republican men and women are expected to furnish 300 automobiles for the pilgrimage to Marion. It is expected 1,000 persons will make the trip. The auto caravan will load in Broad-st between High and Third-sts and is scheduled to leave for Marion at 9 a. m. A general appeal has been issued for persons to donate automobiles for the trip.

Luncheon at Hotel

On arrival at Marion, the caravan will be met by a Marion reception committee and escorted to Hotel Harding, where a luncheon is to be served at 11 a. m. Following this there will be a tour of the city, with memorial services scheduled to start at 12:15 p. m.

Music will be furnished by the Republican Men's and the Republican Women's Glee Clubs of Columbus and an augmented choir of Trinity Baptist Church, the church of the late president. The services will close with the laying of a wreath at the tomb by Mrs. Wilma Sheetz LeVan, Steubenville, Republican national committeewoman for Ohio, and the sounding of taps by guards at the tomb.

Opening Event

The Marion pilgrimage is the opening event on the two-day program of the Ohio Council of Republican Women. Four other sessions, including one Friday afternoon, a banquet Friday night, and two sessions Saturday are planned. Republican state officials will speak.

On the program at the banquet in Columbus are Mrs. Charles H. Babin of New York City, Republican national committeewoman of New York; Mrs. LeVan; Senators Willis and Fess, Maurice Maschke, Cleveland, Republican national committeeman for Ohio; Fred W. Warner, Marion, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee; Senator Nettie B. Laughead, Cincinnati, newly elected chairman of the Women's Division of the Republican State Central Committee; Miss Lucile Atcherson, first woman ever to be appointed to the U. S. Diplomatic Service.

A contest will be staged, first and second awards being made for the congressional districts sending the largest and the next largest delegations to Columbus and also for the district delegations whose total mileage traveled is greatest. There will be election of officers.

DANGER TO APPEAL FROM COURT RULING

Judge Declares He Cannot Believe Common Law Widow Contention

Cleveland, Oct. 28—Attorneys for Mrs. Ann Gowans, Chicago, former Ziegfeld dancer, today announced they would appeal the decision of Probate Judge George S. Addams, returned late Thursday, dismissing the suit of Mrs. Gowans, who sought recognition as the widow of the late Alphonse Morgan, of the Morgan Lithograph Co.

While rebuking the defense attorneys for their methods in handling the case, Judge Addams at the same time declared he could not believe the testimony of Mrs. Gowans, and therefore was compelled to deny her further hearing.

The defense did not call any witnesses, merely moving dismissal, and the decision came after a lengthy argument by Harry E. Fayer, attorney for the plaintiff, who contended there had been no contradiction of the former chorus girl's contention that she was Morgan's common law wife.

Alphonse Morgan died in Florida last winter.

MAN'S BODY FOUND

Akron, Oct. 28—The body of a man found floating in the Cuyahoga River near Cuyahoga Falls, has been identified as that of Frank Horton, 30, of Newton Falls. Coroner M. B. Crafts attributed the death to accidental drowning. The body appeared to have been in the water for more than two weeks.

CHEMIST PRESENTS REASONS FOR ISSUE

Floyd G. Browne Says Sewer Bond Proposal Should Be Approved

New arguments for the $500,000 storm water bond issue which will be presented to the voters at the election on Nov. 8, was brought out today in a statement issued by Floyd G. Browne, superintendent and chemist at the sewage disposal plant.

In giving four reasons why the measure should carry, Mr. Browne says the condition, from the standpoint of health, is serious as the result of the pollution of Rock Swale ditch and the Little Scioto River and that until this is corrected the orders issued by the State Board of Health in 1917 will not be complied with.

The communication follows:

Text of Communication

"The proposed bond issue of $500,000 to provide funds for the construction of the East Side and Center-st trunk line storm sewers, building the necessary relief and lateral sewers, and for the elimination of the existing cross connections between the storm water and sanitary sewer systems should be supported by the citizens of Marion at the November election for the following reasons:

1. It is a part of the original sewerage program.
2. It is a public health measure.
3. It is a civic measure.
4. It is an economy measure.

"It would be well for the citizens of Marion to remember that the original plan of sewerage betterments for the City of Marion as recommended by the board of engineers consisting of T. S Cathers, city engineer; H. P. Eddy, of Boston, and George B. Gascoigne, of Cleveland, included the two storm-water trunk line sewers as well as the trunk line sanitary sewer and the sewage treatment works. The estimated cost of the whole project was about $1,500,000. Of this original project, the sanitary trunk line sewer and the sewage treatment works have been constructed. Marion has bettered itself only partially in sewerage and to provide adequate sewerage the whole project should be completed in detail.

Cites Pollution

"The bond issue should be supported because it is a public health measure. Under the existing condition of Marion's sewer systems, there is considerable pollution of the Little Scioto River and Rock Swale by the sanitary sewage that does not reach the new sewage treatment works. Results of tests on the waters of the Little Scioto River shows that polluting matter which enters the river though the Silver-st storm-water sewer increases the biochemical oxygen demand of the river water from 500 to 900 per cent. This is a serious condition. The State Department of Health's original order to the city that it must cease polluting the river and swale will not have been complied with until these conditions are corrected. Remember, the Little Scioto River is one of the sources of water supply for the city of Columbus.

"Luckily, the people of Marion have escaped so far from any epidemic of disease which might have been caused by the flooding of cellars and basements with both storm-water and sanitary sewage. However, there will always be a potential source of disease under the exisiting conditions which should be eliminated if the public health is to be free from that danger. The reason for the present pollution of the river and swale and the flooding of basements and cellars is due to inadequate storm water sewers and to the existing cross connections between the storm water and sanitary sewer systems.

Economy Measure

"This bond issue should be approved by the voters of Marion because it is a measure that will save the city large sums of money that will have to be expended later. For 20 years or more the basements and cellars of business houses and residences have been flooded consistently one or more times each year with a property loss that must be very large besides the inconvenience caused by flooding. During and after prolonged rains, the sewage treatment works is overloaded with large quantities of storm-water which enters the sanitary sewer system. While the treatment works will treat for a short period only two and one-half times the designed capacity of the plant, yet there have been times when the volume of storm water entering the plant was 20 times the designed capacity. Of course, that amount could not be treated. Storm-water entering the sanitary sewers causes large and rapid fluctuations of sewage flow which seriously disturbs the equilibrium of the treatment devices so that the efficiency of the works is lowered. The writer is especially interested in this phase of the issue because he has observed the conditions at the plant for the last three years and believes that the citizens of Marion want to protect the $525,000 invested in the sewage treatment works."

Cleveland Man Charged with Blue Sky Law Violation

Cleveland, Oct. 28 - E. G. Grumney, brother of F. L. Grumney, who was arrested in Columbus Thursday on charges of violating the blue sky law, for alleged sale of stock certificates in a "perpetual motion" motor concern, today had made a statement here saying that the Grumney proposition was bona fide and that everything would come out all right.

"Description of our motor as a 'perpetual motion' machine is a misnomer," Grumney said. "We have never used the term in our sales talk. We have been working on the mechanism for nine years. We have never taken any person's money without the understanding that they could have it returned if dissatisfied."

Reports from Columbus yesterday stated that F. L. Grumley had realized approximately $125,000 through sale of stock certificates in the concern.

RUTH ELDER ON WAY TO LE BOURGET FIELD

Girl Flier and Haldeman Hop Off from Bayonne; Due Late Today

Le Bourget Airdrome, France, Oct. 28—Miss Ruth Elder, American aviatrix, landed at Le Bourget this afternoon at 3:45 having flown from Bayonne in a Poetz plane, placed at her disposal by William Randolph Hearst through the Daily Mirror of New York.

Paris, Oct. 28—After spending the night on a train for Spain, Ruth Elder, American girl transatlantic flier, and her pilot, George Haldemann, hopped off from the Bayonne Airfield for Paris at 12:55 o'clock, according to a long distance telephone message from Bayonne this afternoon.

Miss Elder and Haldeman, who had arrived at Madrid from Lisbon at 2:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, went to Bayonne by rail last night.

They were expected to reach Le Bourget late this afternoon, although airdrome officials said that fog might delay their arrival. Arrangements were made to keep beacon lights burning and to send up rockets if it is seen that a landing cannot be made until after darkness.

Several military machines were held in readiness to hop off to meet the Poetz machine bearing the two Americans as soon as it neared Le Bourget.

PYTHIANS TO ATTEND DEDICATION OF HOME

Local Delegation Will Go to Wheeling, W. Va., Saturday for Event

A delegation of members of local Knights of Pythias lodges, headed by James H. Ramey, brigadier general of the Ohio brigade, Uniform Rank, will go to Wheeling, W. Va., Saturday to attend dedication of the new Pythian home recently completed there. The dedication ceremony is scheduled for Sunday.

Ramey will also visit Martin Ferry, O., for the purpose of discussing plans for organizing a Uniform Rank company.

ROLAND SWEARINGEN RELEASED FROM JAIL

Officials Liberate Man Because of Illness; Bond Fixed at $100

Roland Swearinger, 24, who has been held at the county jail since Sept. 19 following his arrest on two charges, on of assault and battery and the other assault with intent to kill, was released from the county jail today on bond of $100.

County court officials decided to liberate Swearingen because of the condition of his health. Practically ever since the beginning of his imprisonment he has been suffering from rheumatism and complications and has been under the care of a physician. Officials agreed that he would have a better chance for recovery if permitted to return to his home.

Swearingen pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery filed by J. T. Williams and was fined $25 and sentenced to 10 days in jail. He had served out this sentence and was awaiting arraignment on the charge of assault with intent to kill, which resulted from an altercation between him and Donald Crizer.

It is estimated that people in British Columbia marry at a higher age than in any other part of the world, the average being 32 for men and 27 for women.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS BEING INSPECTED

County Board of Visitors Start Annual Round To Check Buildings

An inspection of all public penal and welfare institutions in Marion County has been started by the county board of visitors for the purpose of determining the need of any changes or improvements and a report of the investigation will be filed in the near future with Probate Judge L. B. McNeal.

Announcement that the inspection is now in progress was made following a meeting of the board held in the probate judge's office yesterday. Similar inspections are conducted several times each year it was stated by members of the board.

The tour of inspection is to include the county home, county jail, children's home, juvenile detention home, city prison and all village prisons.

The board has already visited the children's home, county home and prisons at Waldo and Prospect. It is expected that the remainder of the schedule will be concluded within a few weeks.

Mrs. David Rexroth is president of the board and J. G. Leffler secretary.

A report was made at yesterday's meeting of the annual State Welfare Conference held in Canton, Oct. 11 to 14 inclusive. Representatives from Marion County attending the conference were Mrs. Rexroth and Mrs. H. O. Toms, of the board of visitors, and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Porter, superintendent and matron of the county home.

$70 CLEARED BY CLUB AT COMMUNITY SOCIAL

Approximately $70 was cleared from a community social given last night at Glenwood School by members of the Glenwood Community Club. Entertainment consisted of a musical program presented by E. R. Bondley and a comedy reel and picture of the Hepburn Boy Scout camp flashed on a screen by Adam Bauer.

WARNING ISSUED ON BURNING OF LEAVES

Firemen Make Three Runs To Put Out Blazes; Arrests Threatened

City officials again are facing the annual problem of disposing of leaves. The warm sun and wind of the past few days has brought down great numbers and the lawns and boulevards are covered.

To burn the leaves in the alleys or on the streets is contrary to a city ordinance, Chief McFarland with his car and several men from the central station answered two calls to the east side last night to extinguish bonfires of leaves which had been started on the asphalt pavement.

The first trip was made by firemen at 10:50 o'clock to the intersection of E. Center-st and Seffner-av and at 11:20 o'clock a second call took them to the corner of E. Center-st and Lincoln-av. It is possible that prosecutions will follow if this practice is continued.

It is recommended by the fire chief that no leaves be burned at any place at the present time, the dry weather making leaf fires, exceptionally dangerous at this time. He asks that the leaves be raked onto the boulevards and left there until time for them to be raked into the street to be taken up by the city service department.

The department from the No. 2 fire station were called to the extreme end of Oakland-av yesterday where a grass fire was in progress. The fire is thought to have started from a bonfire.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT

surgeon of the Mafalda lost his life after he had been saved and picked up by the Formosa. He states that the surgeon, when he remembered he had left all of his money in his cabin on the sinking ship, left the rescue ship and returned to the Mafalda to get his money and was never seen again.

Toll May Reach 350

An exact computation of the number rescued was as yet impossible due to the fact that government authorities took complete charge of the survivors arriving and refused to issue any definite statements until they had made their investigation.

The only official number of missing given out was that by the agency of the Navigazione Generale Italiana, owner of the Mafalda. This number is 68, mostly members of the engine room supposedly trapped in the explosions which sank the Italian liner.

A radio check, however, indicated that 403 persons aboard the Mafalda are still unaccounted for. Possibility that some of the rescue ships might not have reported the number they picked up was offered as an explanation of these figures. However, the captain of the Mosella placed the number lost at about 400 and survivors aboard the Athena insisted the number lost was nearer 500.

Most Pitiable Sight

The crowd of refugees aboard the Athena presented a pitiable sight to observers. Cold, frightened and hungry, they were massed on the small deck space of the little freighter which was never built to accommodate so many. They spent the entire trip from the scene of the Mafalda's sinking on the deck of the Athena without places to rest or recuperate from their terrible experiences.

They spent the entire trip from the little food and water during the trip due to the fact that the little freighter carried a small crew and was not stocked with many provisions. In order to make what rations there were go around, only one meal a day was served.

Shurz, Mrs. Rose Helwig and Miss Sara Cooper returned last night from Toledo where they attended the thirty-eighth annual session of the Grand Chapter of Ohio, Order of Eastern Star. Mrs. W. S. Guthrie, Worthy Matron of Lydia Chapter, No. 83, was appointed Deputy Grand Matron of District No. 11, of Ohio, which includes Marion, Delaware, Union and Logan Counties. Cleveland was chosen as the place for holding the next annual session.

ENTERTAINMENT PLANNED

Arrangements were made for a special entertainment feature for the next meeting in one week at the meeting of members of Wayside Lodge, No. 801, I. O. O. F., last night in the Odd Fellows Hall, N. Main-st. Routine business was transacted.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE

115 Students and Former Pupils of College Hold Party

One hundred and seventy-five pupils and former pupils of the Marion Business College enjoyed the annual Hallowe'en party and dance last night in Schwinger's Hall. Hallowe'en emblems decorated the hall and an attractive lunch with appointments in keeping with the season was served.

Awards were presented following the grand march to Miss Ruby Gladys McNickle, Marengo, and Miss Catherine Barnhart for the most comical costumes and Miss Virginia Clarke and Charles Grace for the best costumes. Members of the Rhythm Kings, the Business College orchestra, led by Charles Willis, Bucyrus, furnished a program of music. Miss Geraldine Thompson entertained with a vocal number. Miss Catherine Barnhart gave the class prophecy. Misses Florence Thomas and Marguerite Keeler entertained with piano and ukele music and Miss Mary Heininger contributed an Irish jig. The program concluded with a reading by Mrs. Ben Koons.

Other entertainment included dancing, games, a fortune-telling booth and fish pond.

BIRTHS

A daughter, Bonnie Jane, was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Closs Musgrave, 508 N. Main-st.

TWENTY-ONE RESPOND TO ROLL CALL AT MEETING

Twenty-one members responded to roll call at the meeting of members of Circle No. 11, Aid Society, Epworth M. E. Church, yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John M. Martin, Jefferson-st. Plans were made for the year's work and for presentation of a play, "How the Ladies Earned Their Dollar," in the near future. The annual chicken dinner given by members of the General Aid will be held at the church, Nov. 17, it was announced. The next regular circle meeting will be in November.

Decorations about the rooms and for the luncheon, served by Mrs. Martin and the assistant hostesses, Mrs. Frank Irwin, Mrs. Margaret Hough and Mrs. J. H. Hoagland, were in keeping with the season. Mrs. Minnie Fail was a guest.

Hemorrhoids Disappear

All Pile Misery Banished Without Cutting or Salves

External treatments seldom banish Piles and for the very good reason that the cause is inside—bad circulation in affected parts veins are flabby and bowel walls weakened.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and it has proven successful in thousands of cases—so successful that now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists under a money back guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Heney & Cooper, who will promptly refund the purchase price if you are dissatisfied.—Adv.

WAYSIDE LOYAL CIRCLE HONORS MRS. F. C. BACON

Members of Wayside Loyal Circle, Wayside Rose Rebekah Lodge, in masquerade costume, pleasantly surprised Mrs. F. C. Bacon last night at her home, W. Columbia-st, in honor of her birthday. Following a social hour an old-fashioned taffy pull was enjoyed. Mrs. H. O. Robinson will entertain the circle at their regular meeting next Friday at her home, Bellefontaine-av.

WORK MEETING

Members of the Silver Cross Circle, King's Daughters held a work meeting yesterday afternoon and last night at the home of Mrs. S. S. Walker, Cleveland-av, with Mrs. F. D. Bents, Mrs. H. Burns, Mrs. J. J. Curl, Mrs. W. C. Bailey, Mrs. Thomas Carskadden and Miss Nellie Bain as assistant hostesses. The next meeting will be

RED PEPPER HEAT BREAKS BAD CHEST COLDS OVER NIGHT

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles".—Adv.

Rear Admiral Magruder has appealed to President Coolidge, requesting the president to revoke the order of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur detaching him from command of the Fourth naval district. We are utterly out of sympathy with the rear admiral. He might have known that any suggestion for the improvement of the navy would be offensive to naval bureaucracy.

Chamberlin's "Foolproof" Plane.

A day or two ago at Tetorboro, New Jersey, Clarence Chamberlin gave his first public demonstration of the "foolproof" plane upon which he has been working for many months. The machine, which has a wing spread of but twenty-five feet and weighs but 500 pounds, amazed the assembled air experts by the manner in which it is able to float on an even keel and the shortness of the runs it makes in taking off.

Chamberlin floated to the field after his motor had "gone dead" while he was yet two miles distance with a speed of but fifteen miles an hour—a speed at which any ordinary plane would dive or spin—and kept on a level keep till about 200 feet from the ground, when he went to a glide, but it was such a slow one that when he landed his machine rolled but seventy-five feet.

After his carbureter had been repaired, Chamberlin took off again and left the ground after a run of only sixty feet. Following many stunts, he again demonstrated the remarkable floating powers of his plane. He has attained safety by enlarging the control surfaces of the plane and altering them so that even when the plane stalls—that is, when it reaches the point at which forward speed is not sufficient to keep it up in the air—it is still under control. Most planes at this point go into a dive or spin which frequently ends in a crash if the plane is not high enough in the air.

"I am hoping that after the control surfaces have been perfected, and they need some alterations and refinements," said Chamberlin, "the plane will be almost 'foolproof.' At least it will make flying much safer. With so much flying going on and fields being built in all sorts of places, it is necessary to have a plane that will land and take off in a very short space and which will be under control at all times. Changes in the control surface do not affect the speed of the plane."

Thus Chamberlin, even though he has not yet attained an absolutely foolproof machine, has one which may almost be termed one, and he hopes so to perfect it, that the risk of crashes will be practically eliminated when it is in the hands of trained pilot. Its ability to float even though its motor stalls, adds so immeasurably to its safety as to put it in a class by itself among existing planes.

Now, if somebody will perfect a foolproof automobile, the joy of living might be restored, but possibly this hope is beyond all reason.

Limitation of Chiropractic.

There will come before Ohio voters November 8, in the form of a referendum, the question of authority to throw open the doors of general practice to chiropractors. Twelve times has the legislature refused to pass bills creating such authority in one degree or another. By right of initiative petition the proposed law now comes before the court of last resort—the people.

No quarrel can be established with chiropractic as now legalized and practiced in its limited phase. Possibly there are, in proportion to the number practicing, as many capable and high-minded chiropractors as there are members of other branches of the medical profession. Not every physician is thoroughly qualified. Not every surgeon. Seven years of most assidious study at medical school can not make them so. No two human beings are exactly alike; hence, no rote or formula will suffice to treat every case.

If the public finds in chiropractic, as it seems to have found, just one more means of relief from real or fancied suffering, it is entitled to the privilege of such treatment the same as it is privileged to take pink pills or have an appendix carved out. The important thing is limitation, regulation and protection against false or misleading cures.

By the proposed law any person over twenty-one may be licensed to practice after graduation from chiropractic school following attendance and study for eighteen months, divided into three school terms of six months each. Preliminary educational credentials need only be a diploma from a reputable college, a diploma from normal school, high school or seminary; or a teacher's certificate; or a student's certificate of examination for admission to a college freshman class. It is within the power of the examiner to pass an applicant even without preliminary educational requirements.

Payment of a $25 fee entitles the applicant to examination.

It proposes to take chiropractic examination out of the hands of the present state medical board and divert such authority to a board of chiropractic examiners of three members to be appointed by the governor.

Under the proposal, chiropractic shall be deemed to be the adjustment by hand of the articulations of the spinal column and other incidental adjustments; but it shall not include major surgery, nor the administration or prescribing of any drug or medicine included in materia medica. Chiropractors shall, subject to the limitations of the proposed law, be entitled to all the rights and privileges of physicians and surgeons.

Analyzed, the voters are asked to permit men and women with limited, though possibly reasonable, education to treat all ailments, infections, contagious and venereal diseases, sign birth and death certificates, practice in hospitals, state institutions and under workmen's compensation laws.

Can the adjustment method suffice in a case of progressive tuberculosis, scarlet fever, or the arrival of a new baby in the home? The chiropractic theory itself refutes the presence of germs and lays all ills to a condition of the vertebrae, holding that cure lies in the correction of such condition.

Throwing open the gates to general practice may not take away from existing authorized medical professions such things as vaccination against smallpox, innoculation against diphtheria or any of the other anti-toxins used against diseases, and particularly epidemics among school children. But it does permit an attempt on the part of chiropractors to treat just such things by the "adjustment" method. If chiropractors served as public health officers of municipalities, as they can under the proposed law, who of us would be willing to entrust an epidemic to adjustments? May we safely reject the recognized, tested and proven preventives, anti-toxins, the increasing scientific knowledge which have conquered most familiar diseases and keeps other grave public dangers in control?

There are good doctors, fortunately, and there are good chiropractors. But we may reasonably doubt the advantage of placing in the hands of a twenty-one-year-old graduate of chiropractic school the power to sit on a board of health and decide, after eighteen months of adjustment schooling, whether our children shall be exposed to even the possibility that there may be such things as germs.

Perhaps we need not concern ourselves with the question of whether the method is fair as compared with the six years required to become a physician or surgeon. There are enough worries now with the so-called ethics which sometimes come before the healing of the sick. But chiropractic is one thing and the treatment of infections, contagious and venereal diseases, obstetrics, community health, is another.

Rather than make it easier for doctors, whether their belief be founded upon the use of drugs and knives, or the rubbing and twisting of muscles and vertebrae, let us take an extra look at those who are passed as fit and capable of answering night calls to relieve distress and suffering.

Chiropractors of high character can do a great service if they remove some of the defects of the profession, ethical or otherwise, a greater service than by loading our office buildings with any sort of persons, young or old, shot through school in three six-month sessions and passed on to a gullible public as capable practitioners.

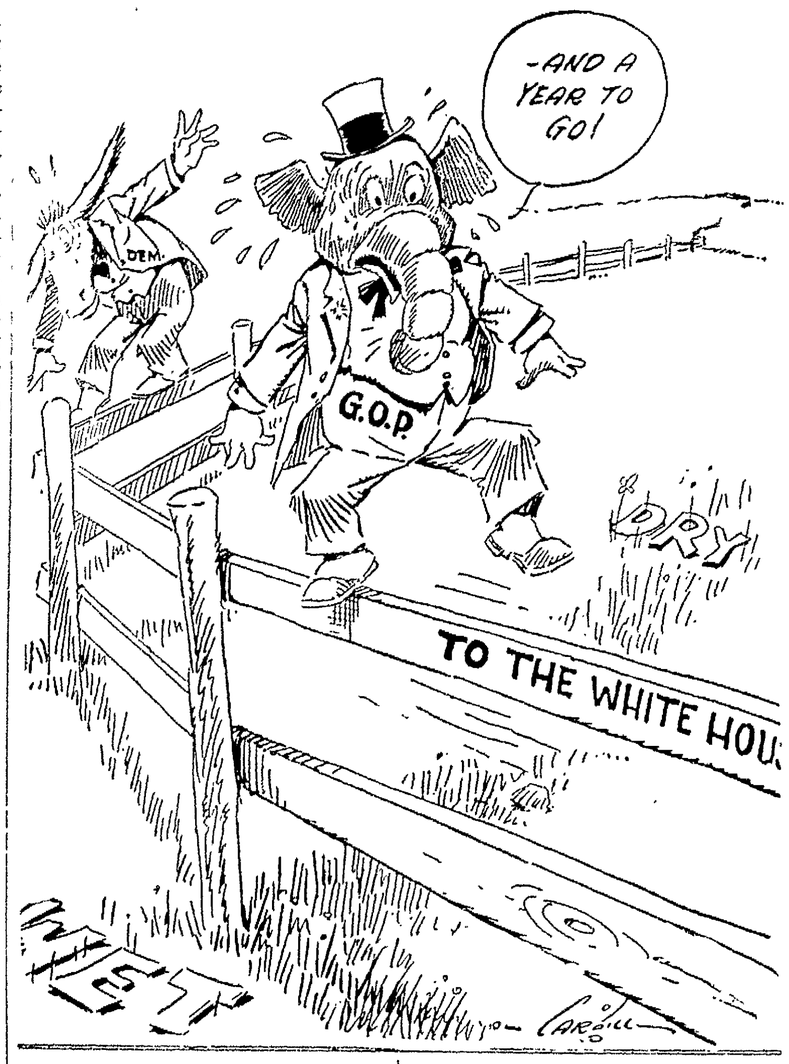
Can reputable chiropractors themselves afford to take the chance of destroying their own structure by permitting droves of unqualified people to pretend ability that might easily endanger a whole community?

On November 8, Ohio will have the opportunity to indicate its confidence in present consititued authorities, in its courts and in its legislature, or whether it is willing to take the sporting chance that they are all wrong and that we need a new flood of "doctors" to confuse us even more than we are now confused.

It is not difficult to recommend that Ohio vote "No."

Vassar seniors are raising a fund of $1,000 with which to decorate their "own smoking-room." And yet some pessimists will hold that the great cause of education isn't going on!

THE LONG, LONG, TRAIL



From Our Readers.

Would Solve All Taxation Problems.

Editor Star—If the United States constitution was interpreted the way it should be interpreted, such an interpretation of the state and federal taxing power would solve every one of our taxation problems and all other problems related to taxation. One of the problems related to taxation is the problem of how to find financial relief for the farmers of the United States. If the federal taxes were levied in accordance with such an interpretation of the state and federal taxing power, congress would undoubtably levy a tax like this: A tax of one per cent. upon all sales of property, real and personal, rents, interest on money, dividends, salaries, wages, annuities, gifts, inheritances, railroad fares, theater admissions, insurance premiums, the proceeds of insurance policies, judgments including alimony and so on. For our purpose, we will call such a tax a straight sales tax or a turnover tax.

The first step towards finding financial relief for the farmers of the United States would be for congress to levy such a tax for six months to take the place of all of our present federal taxes except the taxes upon imports for the purpose of giving such a tax a trial. What is needed is proof that such a tax will not only yield more revenue, but will be less felt than our present federal taxes. It would not make any difference whether the United States supreme court would adopt such an interpretation of the state and federal taxing power if called upon to decide a case involving such a question. It is sufficient that the United States constitution is susceptible of an interpretation which will suggest such a tax.

We can tell pretty nearly how much revenue such a tax will yield. The bank clearings of the United States for the year ended September 30, 1925, were approximately $500,000,000,000. The above-named items include all of the bank clearings but the bank clearings do not include all of the above named items. The sum of the above-named items would considerably exceed the bank clearings. They would probably amount to $600,000,000,000 per annum. If that be true, such a tax should yield a revenue of about $6,000,000,000 per annum. To this must be added at least $500,000,000 per annum for the taxes upon imports. Such a federal tax and the present taxes upon imports would yield a revenue of about $6,500,000,000 per annum.

The right way to collect such a tax would be to require all checks, money orders, drafts and so on to be stamped with a stamp costing one per cent. of the face value of the check, money order or draft before they are presented for payment. Such a tax could also be collected by requiring checks, money order or drafts, when presented for payment, to be accompanied by another check, money order or draft of the appropriate amount which would be payable to and afterwards delivered to the government. This method of collecting such a tax would be very appropriate where the checks, money orders or drafts were very large. That part of such a tax which would not be represented by checks, money orders or drafts would have to be collected by requiring the taxpayers to make reports at the end of regular intervals and accompanied by the amount of the tax due but no taxpayer should be required to include in his report any item which is represented by a check, money order or draft.

As already stated, such a federal tax and the present taxes upon imports would yield a revenue of about $6,500,000,000 per annum. The annual congressional appropriations are now about $3,500,000,000. There would be a surplus of about $3,000,000,000 per annum. Of this surplus, $1,000,000,000 per annum could be used to pay off our national debt. This amount would be in addition to what is now used to pay off our national debt. At that rate, our entire national debt, including the loans which the United States made to Great Britain and France during the war with Germany, could be paid off in considerably less than twenty years without making any allowance for decreasing interest or increasing amount of revenue paid into the United States treasury.

Such a new tax is based upon the theory that a tax levied upon all of the people at a low flat rate will not only yield more revenue but will be less felt than a tax levied at a much higher rate upon a corresponding smaller number of people. If that theory is correct, it would be possible for the United States to cancel its loans made to Great Britain and France during the war with Germany by the adoption of such a tax without increasing the burden of taxation. Such a cancellation of loans should be made upon the condition that Great Britain cancel her loans to France and France consent to a material reduction in the amount of indemnity demanded from Germany. A cancellation of loans upon such a condition would be sure to be followed by a marked improvement in the financial state of Europe which in turn would be followed by increased exports of our surplus agricultural products. What the farmers of the United States need is a larger outlet for their surplus agricultural products and not more credit or price fixing.

The manufacturers, who are the chief beneficiaries of the protective tariff, pay nearly one-half of the federal taxes. The result of such discriminatory taxation is to increase manufacturing costs and put a handicap upon them when they sell their products in the foreign markets. After the adoption of such a proposed federal tax the amount of the federal taxes which they would be required to pay would be much less and for that reason the tariff could be revised downward without doing any violence to the theory of a protective tariff. A downward revision of the tariff would increase the purchasing power of the farmer.

The remainder of this surplus, which would be about $2,000,000,000 per annum could be allocated by congress to the cities and other subdivisions of the states in proportion to the amount of the federal tax which they would pay. Such an allocation of revenue by the federal government should be made to the cities and other subdivisions of the states and not to the state government so as to insure a more equitable division of the revenue and not to encourage extravagance on the part of the state governments. Since the federal government would collect the revenue it should also supervise the expenditure of such revenue. The adoption of such a tax by the federal government would put the fiscal affairs of the cities and other subdivisions of the states under the direct supervision of congress and would save for the taxpayers of the United States hundreds of millions of dollars per annum. The object of such an allocation of revenue by the federal government to the cities and other subdivisions of the states would be to reduce the local taxes upon real and personal property which would relieve the farmers of part of their share of the taxes. The allocation of such an amount of revenue by the federal government to the cities and other subdivisions of the states would go a long way towards reducing the local taxes upon real and personal property since it is almost one-third of all of the state and municipal taxes paid in the whole United States.

"Farm Relief" and tax reduction will from now on be the two most important political issues. Such a sales tax will solve both of them.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

MARY ANDERSON.

Mary Anderson was born in Lidkoping, Sweden August 27, 1872. She came to the United States at Sixteen and entered the garment industry at West Pullman, Chicago. Later she served as a representative of women on the National Boot and Shoe Workers' union, traveling throughout the United States as an organizer. Miss Anderson was in the women in industry section of the national defense advisory committee during the early part of the World war, later becoming assistant chief of the women's bureau, department of labor. She was appointed director in 1919, and was reappointed by President Harding.

Mary Anderson, of the department of labor, fears a period of great unemployment. She says:

"Today we are faced with a new problem. Our great and rapid development of machine-made goods has given us an ability to produce more than we can consume, in many lines. So far we have been table to take up the slack by finding new lines of productions. Things which once were luxuries have become necessities to most of us, but how far along this road we can go before we come to the day of reckoning is the question in my mind. I am afraid we shall face a period of tremendous unemployment.

"What is the solution? Women are in industry to stay. They can help in the right direction by insisting on better conditions for their employment. So long as they stay at the bottom of the wage scale as a whole, so long as they are weak and exploited, just so long do they keep down the entire working group, regardless of sex. Shorter hours will help. They will help very much indeed, not only through making room for more workers, but also through giving all the workers more leisure for the worth while things of life. We have got to grow bigger than our machine civilization. We have got to lay more emphasis on education, on personal culture, on recreation, on home life, on community life, on citizenship.

"That then is the next step. Women's employment will march on, but it will continue to penetrate more and more into these newer divisions, rather than to increase in the great volume that the past has seen. We are workers now—we have taken our places on that ground. The next step is that of full citizenship."

Poems That Live.

OF A FRIEND LATELY DEAD.

It was too heavy for your hands, life's cup,
The fluttering, the fragile hands of you—
They were not strong to hold the chalice up
Until your lips had drained the bitter brew.

You found the pattern on life's loom too dull;
You dreamed a web of gossamer whose gleam
Was like the rainbow's bright and beautiful—
The dreary pattern did not match your dream.

It could not hold your interest, life's book;
Its drab reiterations grew too stale;
You scanned it listlessly, nor stayed to look
How it might end. You sought a brighter tale.

We find the dark brew now more bitter still,
The pattern on the loom more shorn of glory,
The book, oh! drab forevermore—until
We pass, to read with you the brighter story!

—Roselle Mercier Montgomery.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

We are still learning about fuel. The industrial world hasn't found out nearly all it needs to know, and some day will know, about fuel. Less coal and more oil has been the later rule in industry. Now come experiments in burning powdered coal instead of oil under boilers. Experiments are successful and the cost of fuel is greatly reduced. The most important and interesting thing about the industrial revolution is that it keeps right on "revoluting."

When visitors in Russia comment on the poverty and general wretchedness of conditions in that country, they are told that "you should have seen Russia under the czar."

That's the kind of excuse many of us are prone to make for ourselves whenever we are in error. We seek for comfort in the fact that we are better than somebody else or that the conditions which we have brought about are not as bad as they might be. That's a lazy excuse. It shows no ambition and no heart for a better day. We ought always to be comparing our work with what it might be, with the ideal. The acceptance of the second best, because it is not so bad as something else, is a poor, weak gesture.

Seven years ago the United States treasury department estimated that we, the people of this country, spent $23,000,000,000 a year on sports amusements, and luxuries. The amount is doubtless greater now. Your first thought might be that this is a lot of waste. The fact is that our habit of freely spending for this sort of thing is one of the reasons for our prosperity. We keep the big manufacturing and selling machine going by our luxurious habits. We keep a multitude at work. We provide a continuance of prosperity.

Ninety per cent. of 1,000 business leaders of this country have approved a new calendar. The year would consist of thirteen four-week months, with an extra day left over annually and two extra days in leap year. Every week day would fall on the same date.

And why not? We muddle along with an antiquated calendar when they are good reasons for systematizing things in a convenient manner. The reason we do nothing about it is the reason that governs us in most other matters of suggested improvement. We just simply hate initial inconvenience. We would rather let well enough alone than go through the necessary motions of adjusting ourselves to something better. And that's why human progress is so slow.

Chewing Food a Necessity.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Everybody has an idea about the size of the stomach. When you see a healthy boy eat his dinner you can well imagine it has unlimited storage space. As a matter of fact, its average capacity is about five pints.

To prepare the food for swallowing and passage into the stomach, a great quantity of saliva or spittle is required. You will be astonished to learn that the amount of this fluid supplied by the glands of the mouth is about the same as the capacity of the stomach, five pints. During the whole twenty-four hours this liquid pours into the mouth.

The salivary fluid is more than ninety-nine per cent. water. About one-half of one per cent. consists of solids.

Among the solids are certain substances the scientists call "enzymes." These are as yet not definitely understood agents, but they have the power to produce or excite chemical changes. In the case of the salivary enzymes they have a definite function to perform in relation to the food taken into the mouth.

I want you to understand enough about this process so you will see the importance of chewing your food. Then you will be anxious to help your digestive organs, instead of bolting the food and doing yourself harm.

The fruits, vegetables and cereals we take consist largely of starch. Bread, breakfast foods, potatoes, peas, beans and most of the other common foods are almost pure starch. Some of the grains of starch are packed away in firm envelopes of fibrous material. It is safe to say that half the things we eat are starch.

The body can not handle starch. It is too complicated a compound to be absorbed and, before this food can be digested, it must be changed into sugar. To make this change the enzymes of the saliva are given us by kind Nature.

We have strong teeth, some with cutting edges and others with grinding surfaces. The things we eat are cut and ground into fineness. At the same time the saliva pours into the mouth and by the chewing motion of the jaws it is thoroughly mixed with the food.

If you will continue to chew the food, you will notice pretty soon that it tastes sweet. That is because the starch has been transformed into sugar.

When the mouthful is swallowed the lump passes into the stomach where for a brief tiem the salivary enzymes continue to work. Whatever starch is left is taken care of by the fluids of the pancreas, or "sweetbread." But the more care you take to chew the food, the less will be the demand on this organ.

Lots of people suffer from indigestion because they fail to chew the food. Correcting this one bad habit may change discomfort and misery into good digestion and freedom from pain.

Unfortunately, decayed and painful teeth may make chewing an uncomfortable act. In that case there is a temptation to swallow the food, with almost no preparation. Of course that throws too much work on the intestinal tract. Trouble is sure to follow.

You just can not have perfect digestion and perfect health unless you observe the rules of right living. One of them is to eat slowly and not swallow the food until it is almost liquid because of the thorough chewing.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

G.A. Q.—Will ——— prove reducing and are they harmless?

A.—Since I am not familiar with the preparation you refer to, I can not advise you concerning its effectiveness. If you watch the diet, restricting the amount of sweets and starchy food and taking plenty of outdoor exercise, you should notice reduction in your weight. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

J. H. E. —Should eggs be included in the diet for one suffering from high blood pressure?

A.—Eggs are often eliminated under these circumstances. Your own doctor will outline a suitable diet for your particular case. Each patient should have specific attention and treatment.

S.M.K. Q.—Would acidosis cause a seventeen-year-old boy to have convulsions? He had this trouble when he was ten and stopped for a time and now has been having them again.

A.—May be due to epilepsy; have your doctor advise you. An intestinal disturbance is often at the root of this trouble.—Copright, 1927.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

But do thou for me, O God the Lord, for Thy name's sake. Because Thy mercy is good, deliver Thou me. For I am poor and needy, and my heart is wounded within me.—Psalm 109:21, 22

Prayer—O Lord, my God, I cried unto Thee, and Thou hast healed me.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 28—Thoughts while strolling—A grocery features "radio entertainment." What became of bread sticks in glass holders? A girl with a Persian cat on a leash. A sale of smocks. The boys are losing their summer tans. Asthmatic overfed dogs that waddle.

Those washed-out creatures in hand laundries. A horse ambulance. The sun sinks. That winey dusk—so peculiar to New York. New apartments with Indian names. A silk-batted corn salve curb salesman. Dance hall sign: "We teach the Drowsy Drag." Dudley Field Malone, the globe-trotting lawyer.

Coffee hutches with dizzy blond waitresses. Humpty-Dumpty, Piggly-Wiggly and Cash and Carry stores. Pawn shop window card: "We live on the flat of the land." The old man on crutches who sings hymns on elevated station steps. Charcoal steaks and homemade pies. Eddie Cantor and his children.

A famous old baseball player now a movie doorkeeper. Those strained, whispering groups about the entrance to an emergency hospital. A lunch stand spells barbecue—barbque. Listless children playing hop-scotch sidewalk games. Tired women leaning out windows.

The dilapidated fronts of once-famous supper clubs. Graham McNamee, the radio announcer. Those discreet taxis with sliding window curtains. Another Indian prince with his trailing retinue. Air trips to Boston—$30. The lonesome clerks in the deserted orange drink stands.

Broadway begins writing its golden scrawl in the sky. And a hard-boiled street melts in a soft glow. The early movie patrons. Speakeasy bartenders in white aprons come to the door for a breath of air. Pavement pressers who stand silently on corners for hours. Hating New York and afraid to leave it.

The rush in theater ticket agencies. And the alert young clerks who use the batteries of telephones. The professorial looking lecturers beginning their "spiels" in sucker sale shops. Old Tip who sells racing forms and spends winters along the Riviera selling flowers.

The old-fashioned sick headache is becoming obsolete. Women rarely wrap heads in towels and groan in darkened rooms with misery these days. Drug stores report little demand for headache potions. And a New York doctor says bobbed hair has brought about universal relief. He reports that out of 100 women who had periodical attacks of migraine only eighteen are now sufferers. And these victims have never had their heads clipped. In other words, he believes the strain of heavy locks is almost entirely responsible for the malady.

And speaking of hair, the saddest story of the week concerns a bald gentleman who attempted to be facetious. He was at the apartment of a friend having a few last ones before going home. His friend wears a toupee and for a joke he asked to borrow it to slip around the corner to his home wearing it. He did. His wife saw it, gave a gasp and snatching it from his head tossed it into the open fire. The wig cost $200.

The uke among the flappers and cake-eaters is going the way of the puff sleeve. The new instrument of torture is a tiny concertina so popular among Russians. Any number of the younger generation have mastered the instruments and carry them around as they did the ukes.

A new Broadway racket is being worked with fair to middling success. The victim is told by a chance acquaintance in a cafe or speakeasy that the c. a. has just been fired unjustly after years of service by a certain jeweler. But he explains he got even. The proprietor is off on a trip and before the discharged employe left he re-marked everything in the shop at half price and clerk succeeding him will not know the difference. If the sucker bites he will get the jeweler's address and likely as not make many purchases—at prices, incidentally, all out of reason for values received.

A topsy-turvey world. A former boy tenor of the famous so-called John D. Rockefeller church is now featured in the Follies. And four doors away from the Follies show is where I drank my first fatal glass of beer. It is now an orange drink stand.—Copyright, 1927.

Those present were as follows: Mrs. George Tebby, Mrs. Asa Brown, Mrs. Howard Jenner, Mrs. Frank Seiter, Mrs. Verne Hecker, Mrs. Flora Gray, Rev. Gaeo Nettro, Miss Eva Eastman, and Mrs. Logan Tong. Mrs. Flora Gray was taken in as a new member. The society will hold its next meeting with Mrs. H. W. Jenner.

SOCIETY MEETS

Mrs. Josephus Thomas Hostess To Prospect Baptist Group

Prospect, Oct. 28—The Missionary Society of the Baptist Church, held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Josephine Thomas, north of town. The president, Mrs. Emery Roberts, had charge of the meeting. Mrs. Gerald Roberts read the scripture lesson, which was followed by sentence prayers. The topic of the afternoon's study was "Fifty Golden Years," and was in charge of Mrs. Gerald Roberts, assisted by Mrs. Dayton Hedges, Mrs. John Almendinger, Mrs. T. E. Drake and Mrs. William Powell. Mrs. Orra Finnle contributed a piano solo. Mrs. Emery Roberts gave a report of the Baptist Association recently held in Marion. About 33 members responded to the roll call with a verse of scripture containing the word "Harvest". Arrangements were made to attend the Woman's Quarterly meeting of the Marion Association, which will be held Nov. 10 at Green Camp. The meeting closed by singing "Blest be the Tie That Binds."

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mesdames Ralph McPherson, Rich Kline, Ross Thomas and W. W. Dix. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. George Thomas.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce Cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation."

Perfect regularity is possible today and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

Your first cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascarizing tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drugstore must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of cascarets than anything else.—Adv.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "MONEY TALK" and "THE HOLD WOOD CIRCUIT"

CHAPTER XXXIX

For a minute it seemed to Sally that she must be dreaming. She stood rooted to the spot, wondering. Beau was packing a suitcase in the middle of the night.

Where was he going? . . . Why was he ready to leave the house like that in the night?

Like a flash the answer wrote itself on Sally's quick brain. 'Money!—Because of money!' She knew Beau and his great weakness.

Then, like a flash she was in the room bending over him. At her touch on his shoulder he jumped as if he'd been shot, and turned quickly. Her whisper was hardly more than a quick breath: "Come here!"

Without a sound she was out of the room, across the hall and the dark sitting room. She could hear him pulling close behind her as she groped for the switch in the living room to turn on the lights.

They flushed up, and she faced Beau grimly. Her lips opened stiffly, not to ask a question, but to state a fact.

"Beau, you've taken some more money . . . Tell me how much." It seemed to her that she had known for weeks that this would happen.

She was not like a girl of 20 in that moment. She was a woman—with a woman's knowledge of looking out of her blue eyes with their heavy shading of lashes.

But Beau wouldn't meet her look. His eyes went from one corner of the room to the other—from the door to Sally. Finally he just flickered her with that shifty gaze of his.

"What do you mean, more money?" he asked, bitterly. "When did I ever take any money?"

"Why, those bad checks you gave Ted Scott," replied Sally, wondering how he could forget them, when she had only begun to pay them off for him.

"Oh, those!" His voice was sulky. "Are you ever going to get through throwing those up to me. They were a mistake—I'll have paid them off myself if you hadn't butted in."

For a minute Sally was speechless with surprise.

Then she began to understand him—that he would never take the blame for anything, not even in his own thoughts.

Just as Mrs. Jerome preferred to think that her husband had left her because of another woman, instead of admitting that it was because he couldn't live the way she wanted to live—with unmade beds, hit-or-miss meals taken from cans or delicatessens, dust and untidiness.

"What's the trouble now, Beau?" Sally asked gently. "Please tell me—I'll try not to butt in, as you call it, this time. But maybe I can help."

She could see that he was in desperate trouble about something. He was like a hunted animal in his terror—afraid, almost, to tell his own sister what he had done.

He stood still for a minute, picking at his fingers nervously, looking around the cozy, familiar room as if it were some place that he never had seen before. Then suddenly he turned as if he were going to leave it.

But, just as suddenly, he swung back to Sally, and began to tell her what was wrong.

"I've taken some money, see?" he asked, and his voice was low and hoarse. "From the bank where I work. I've just taken it. Get that through your head. Stolen it is what I mean."

Then he looked squarely at her with his light-blue eyes, and there was defiance in his face.

"It's sure to be found out, and they'll come here for me—and that's why I'm going now. I'm not going to be arrested and ruin Mabel's life for her. She's the one I'm thinking about—Mabel!" His voice broke on his small wife's name.

By the time he had finished speaking, Sally was ready with her answer. "But, Beau, it isn't going to help matters for you to run away. It's going to make them all the worse."

Beau stared at her. He shook his handsome blond head dully, and, as Sally looked at it, she wondered how so handsome a head could hold so many dishonest impulses as Beau had.

"What you've got to do," said Sally, thinking quickly and sharply, "is to stay right here and put back the money you've taken. How much was it, and how did you manage to get away with it?"

Beau's lips curled. "I don't trust you or anybody enough to give myself away to them," he said. "I won't tell you how I got the money—but what I did was a grand."

"One grand! How much is that?"

"A thousand dollars," explained Beau. "And it's all gone. I played the ponies with it and lost it all, as usual." His bitterness was in his voice and face. "I always lose. I never get any kind of a lucky break."

"A thousand dollars," said Sally to herself. Her earnings for a whole year! The mere thought of it was paralyzing.

For two or three minutes she could not think of a thing to say. She stood looking intently into Beau's blank face. And he looked back at her, with his eyes hanging heavily and his shoulders sagging.

"Well?" she said at last. "We'll have to get the money from somewhere. Won't we, Beau? And then you'll have to put it back and quit the job at the bank. It's no place for you to work."

"I'll say it isn't," Beau answered. "When I see all the jack living around, and then think how Mabel wants a new dress and how I haven't got a single shirt with whole cuffs, I go kind of nutty, I guess."

"You wouldn't have to have ragged cuffs if Mabel would mend them up once in a while!" Sally spoke sharply, for she was out of patience with Mabel. "And you know you can't afford that car of yours!"

Beau shrugged his shoulders and looked ugly. "Well, don't rub it in! Don't kick a guy when he's down," he growled ungratefully. "Where are you going to get that grand for me?"

"Aunt Emily," Sally told him. "If she has it, she'll lend it to me. I'm going to start working for her pretty soon, and I can pay it back to her if she'll just give me enough time."

Beau looked brighter. He knew that, somehow or other, his women-folk would save him. They always had.

"Goodnight," he said briefly, and went to bed.

Sally tiptoed back to her own bed. But she could not sleep. She lay awake, listening for the sound of a board creaking or a suitcase lock snapping. She was afraid that Beau might try to get away after all.

The next morning at 9 o'clock Sally was marching up River Road on her way to Aunt Emily's.

The house on River Road looked just as it always did, facing the eastern skies, and catching the pale autumn sunshine on its window panes.

The only difference was that over the gate a wooden sign hung:

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE
OF THE ROAD
CHICKEN DINNERS
SERVED
FROM 6 to 8

"By Gaks, she's doing business already!" said Sally with an amused twinkle in her eyes.

It was like Aunt Emily to go ahead with her own plans, saying nothing to anybody about them. There was nothing namby-pamby about Aunt Emily. She stood on her own feet. Only she did not stand. She ran. She galloped ahead.

When Sally rang the doorbell a strange woman answered it. A large, plump, comfortable looking woman, with sharp blue eyes, and a smudge of flour on her apron front.

"Yes, Miss Jerome's here," she said in answer to Sally's question. "She's in the office."

She led Sally into the small room that once had been the linen room of the big old house.

It had nothing in it but a desk and two straight chairs. And on one of the chairs sat Aunt Emily, looking very stiff and prim in a dark blue silk dress.

"Well, if it isn't little Sally!" she exclaimed when her niece stepped into the bright businesslike pipace. And what brings you 'way out here this morning?"

She always struck straight to the heart of things.

Sally was like her—direct and quick. "Money," said she. "Aunt Emily, would you lend me a thousand dollars and not ask what I want it for?"

Aunt Emily's fine, firm lips came together with a snap. "I would not!" she declared promptly and forcibly, "because I'd know what you wanted it for. For Millie—or for Beau! And they've had enough of my money, thank you!"

She got up and brushed the palms of her hands one against the other, as if she were washing her hands of the whole Jerome family.

"Let me show you my dining room," she said, and as she held open the door she detected a kiss on Sally's velvety flushed cheek. "You know I'd give my niece Sally anything I had, don't you? But the rest of the family have had the last nickel I'll ever give them."

The dining room was a beauty. The chairs and tables in it had been painted soft green and covered with flowered chintz. There were black candlesticks on each table, and they held jade-green candles. The curtains were the softest of white dotted muslin, and on the floor were green-and-white woven rugs.

At any other time Sally would have gone into raptures over the dining room. But this morning nothing could lift the leaden weight on her heart. Nothing could raise the drooping corners of her mouth.

"Aunt Emily, I'm coming to work for you on the first of November, if you still want me," she said. "And I'll pay you back that money, somehow or other, if only you'll let me have it. Beau has got himself into some trouble—"

"I don't care what Beauregard Jerome has done!" Aunt Emily shook her head vigorously. "I made myself poor to give to his father, and to everybody else in the family, and I'm through!" She brought her thin hand down flat and firmly on the edge of the table nearest her to show that she meant what she said.

Sally shrugged her shoulders.

"Well, where do I go from here?" she asked herself.

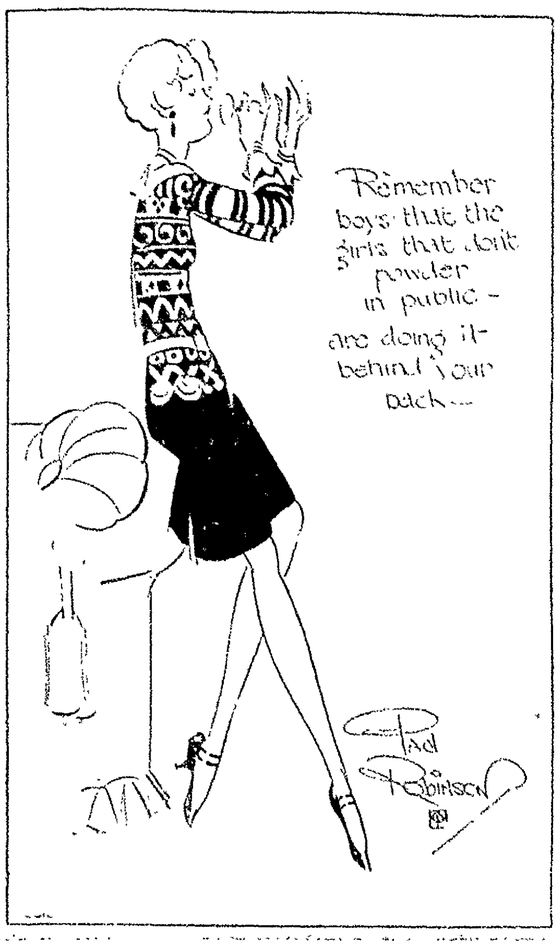
Just Among Us Girls



Peter's Adventures

The Star's Daily Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE S. VINCENT

ALL MERRY BUT ONE

So quiet it was that if Peter had thought about it at all, he must have come to the conclusion that he and the Possums had the Great Woods all to themselves. All the while he and the Possums had been visiting, the moonlight had been growing brighter, until now the clearing was as light as day.

Although the feast is the main thing, a picnic wouldn't be a picnic without a bit of play, and the little Possums knew this quite as well as anybody else. At last, having eaten their fill of the fruit of the tree, they joined in the games of the wood folk. Hide-and-seek among the shadows that fell on the border of the clearing, just where the trees began—what fun that was!

Besides, one never quite knew just what was lurking in the darkness, and as long as one didn't really get caught by the enemy, the thought of hidden danger made things more exciting.

Skip-hop! The Possum with the longest legs was sure to win this contest. And hang-tail! Well, that was the finest game of all, for that gave the youngsters a chance to show how strong they were growing. No weakling Possum could grasp a branch and swing in midair and head down!

With squeals and squeaks of joy the baby Possums made merry in the moonlight. Mother Possum, from the paw-paw tree, looked down upon them and chuckled at their glee. She seemed to have quite forgotten her warning of a short time before. Only Peter, who was not used to being in the heart of the woods in the middle of the night, remembered, and now and again looked uneasily about him.

"Those youngsters are making a lot of noise," thought the boy. "If Hound-Dog is not sound asleep he certainly must hear them. Right out in the bright moonlight, too! Best chance in the world for every little Possum to be picked off, one by one. Mother Possum, up in that tree, couldn't move a paw quick enough to save her youngsters if an enemy should creep up upon us. Brr! I wish I were out of the woods. 'Tis no place for a boy at night. How do I know who may be prowling about, and what could I do if I met any strange monster! Nothing! Lots of trees, but nowhere to hide that a wild woods creature couldn't find me. Dark enough, but animals can see as well at night as in the day, so I've heard! Gee Willikens, but this is a spooky place. If only morning were here!"

Miss Lincoln's Refusal

ELEANOR LINCOLN'S voice was was all . . . as she exclaimed in protest . . . Ducky's suggestion that she be . . . without Foster, standing by . . . when she should pose for the . . . , he intended to make her. Of course to most of the group . . . remarks . . . cry of "I don't want to . . . the picture," was but the . . . indorsement of a spoiled beauty . . . new young Mr. Davis . . . an almost . . . annoyed glance at her, and . . . Mary's eyes suddenly . . . bright with . . . comprehension.

Noel . . . no part no attention to the . . . , all his attention . . . to . . . Mary in the problem of . . . getting . . . alone with Mary before . . . should arrive. . . . that Mary and young Mr. Jack . . . remembering the same . . . which my own memory was . . . Again I sat in the drawing room . . . Larches and heard pretty Mary . . . exclaiming theatrically . . . the beauty of the picture which Mary . . . presented as she stood . . . her hand resting upon Fedor's . . . The charming Southampton . . . who had sponsored young . . . socially brought him to The Larches . . . during her travels she had seen a painting in which the . . . of a dog closely resembling Fedor, and a girl not unlike Miss Lincoln were portrayed. Her memory had failed her, however, and I surmised that the young mistress of The Larches was greatly relieved at her forgetfulness.

Ducky did not press the point, although I could see that he was sorely disappointed. When he once fixes the concept of an illustration in his mind, . . . parts it only with dirtiest mental anguish. But of course he had no recourse but to submit. Miss Lincoln was not a professional model indeed. I knew from Ducky's manner that he considered her consent to pose for him, a triumph of diplomatic achievement on his part.

"As you wish, of course," he said. "But I am so hoping that tomorrow you will avail yourself of the immemorial feminine privilege."

"And change my mind?" she sent a shoe upward glance at him, which I watching, could not help but realize was effective and provocative. "I am afraid not, but of course one never knows. Then I shall expect you at eleven?"

"Upon the stroke of the hour," he replied smiling, and she turned to Noel Vertin with a subtle little air of proprietorship as unwarranted as it was effective, but which I was not sorry to see her assume. Mary needed a lesson, I told myself with a resentful little remembrance of the way my husband's temperamental young niece had spoiled my ruse for giving the young violinist the few words alone with her for which he patently was so anxious.

"When are you coming to see me?" she asked, holding out her hand to him. "You have neglected me shamefully."

Noel is too much his father's son to betray indifference or apathy toward any woman, but I was prepared to see him content himself with the usual perfunctory platitudes. But with a thrill of malicious glee I saw unwonted interest and animation in his face, and heard a new note in his voice as he bent low and kissed her hand.

"You will make just the opposite complaint in a few days," he said gallantly, "if we believe that my starting work has been unavoidable. But I now am master of my own time."

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a grassy pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 287, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 125 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

All Railroads Operating Through Marion Finishing Summer Repair Programs

While No Extensive Improvements Have Been Made This Year, Miles of Track Have Been Reballasted and New Rails Laid

While there has been no extensive improvement program carried out by the four railroads with lines through Marion, each road has given considerable attention to maintainance of road.

Hundreds of thousands of tons of ballast have been put on roadbeds and thousands of new ties used. Many miles of new rail has been laid. All lines are finishing their work.

The Hocking Valley on its 67 seven miles of double track under the supervision of F. A. Sparks has used approximately 50,000 tons of rock in reballasting and resurfacing its roadbed, according to Mr. Sparks. Sixteen miles of new rail and 45,000 new cross ties have been laid, Mr. Sparks says. Mr. Sparks authority extends from just north of Columbus to Carey and the entire line is double tracked.

In maintainig this stretch of roadbed teh eHocking has 205 laborers divided into 20 section gangs. During the summer there have been three extra gangs at work.

12 Tamping Machines

As an aid to the workmen this section of the Hocking uses 12 air tamping machines. Thirty-five miles of roadbed have been tamped with these machines this summer according to Mr. Sparks.

One hundred eighty four men are regularly employed by the Big Four railroad to maintain the 90 miles of track under the supervision of G. W. Smith, supervisor, of Galion. During the summer 30 miles of this track have been resurfaced. More than 5,000 new ties have been laid as well as a number of miles of new rail. Mr .Smith has authority over the 90 miles of track extending from Bellefontaine to Galion and from Galion to Columbus.

Four miles of Big Four track extending through Marion is kept in shape by Pearl McClain, section boss, an dhis gang of section hands.

Pennsy Work

The Toledo division of the Pennsylvania under the supervision of F. L. Solander consists of 63 miles of line, 25 of which is double track, a total of approxmately 95 miles of track to be taken care of. On this stretch of track 21,000 cross ties have been laid this summer acording to Mr. Solander. Ten miles of 100 pound rail and one mile of 130 pound rail have been laid. Four hundred cars of ballast have been used in maintaining the roadbed. Fourteen gangs numbering 120 men are required to keep the road in shape.

C. K. Scott, divsion engineer, has supervision of the entire Kent division of the Erie which consists of 301 miles of track. During the summer 25 miles of new 110 pound rail have been laid according to Mr .Scott. Five miles of new ballast and 70,000 new cross ties have been laid. Thirty miles have been resurfaced and 15 miles reballasted according to Mr. Scott. A total of 30,000 tons of ballast have been used.

This week the Hocking Valley has been making some improvement at the Union Depot. The platform between the tracks is being rebuilt. The new platform will be of Headley oil construction. The job is nearing completion.

New Telephone

Union Station has a new telephone. It was installed Wednesday to replace the old one that had been in the station for many years. The new telephone is of the modern metal pay station type and replaces an old wooden 'phone that one time had a crank on the side by which central was called.

Just how long the old telephone was in the depot is not known by station employes, but it is thought to have been there for nearly 20 years. At present there is only one man at the Union depot who has a longer record of service than the old 'phone. That is Frank Gabriel, baggage master, who was in the baggage department before the present depot was opened 25 years ago last August.

As the old telephone was carried out to make way for the advance of progress, Union Depot statisticians estimated that if all the coins that had been dropped in the money box, were laid side by side they would make a line longer than the neighbor women's conversation over a four party line. There was also some speculatin as to the most important conversation ever carried on over the telephone in all its long years of service.

On Vacation

J. E. Sifritt, Erie coal accountant here, is spending the latter part of this week on a vacation in the east.

Inspect Road

F. A. Sparks, supervisor, and John Zuck, chief clerk, were members of the annual Hocking Valley inventory party that inspected this section of the road this week. The party was headed by C. A. Mueller, traveling auditor, of Columbus. The party started at Carey and worked south to Columbus.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE PLANNED TONGIHT

Committee To Have Charge of Arrangements To Meet at Red Cross Office

A meeting of the general committee appointed to arrange for Marion's celebration of Armistice Day has been called for 8 o'clock tonight by the chairman, Oscar Gast. Details of the celebration, which is planned for afternoon and night and includes special ceremony at 11 o'clock, the hour that the armistice became effective, will be discussed. The meeting will be held at Red Cross headquarters in the Elite apartment building, S. Main-st.

The committee had planned to meet last Wednesday night but this program was not carried out because of the meeting of Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 162 of the American Legion, held the same night.

The Legion received a preliminary report of the commitee and adopted a resolution requesting all schools of the city and county to close on Armistice Day. Pupils of the schools are expected to have an important part in the program of celebration.

BIG RED HOPES TO CHECK UP SIXTH VICTORY SATURDAY

Miami To Meet Wittenberg in Buckeye A. A. Class; Both Teams Unbeaten

Oxford, Oct. 27—Oberlin's defeat at the hands of the Big Reds Saturday marked Miami's fifth consecutive victory this season. All five of these victories have been won by a margin of 20 points or more. Oberlin held Miami to the lowest score she has registered this year, 23 points being all the Miami griddiers could roll up.

Pittser is confident that if he can whip Wittenberg he can come thru the rest of the Buckeye schedule undefeated, and bring to Miami her first championship since 1921.

Everything has been done to his team than can be done. The boys are in excellent shape, well drilled in all of their plays and ready to go. About all there is left to do for the Wittenberg game Saturday is to continue conditioning exercises. Pittser, when questioned last night about stiff scrimmages for his team this week replied, "We won't scrimmage but once this week, I feel the boys are ready, and other than keeping them in condition we are making no great preparations for Wittenberg."

Pittser expects the greatest battle the team has had this year against the boys from Springfield. Wittenberg's line from tackle to tackle outweighs Miami nearly 15 pounds to the man, and Pittser has little hope of making much thru their forward wall. With both teams boasting an impregnable line the game should be a punting duel with Stryker getting the best of his opponent in this department.

One thousand people from Springfield will be on hand to witness the game A special train will bring the crowd and their band. Neither Miami nor Wittenberg has lost a game this year in the conference, and the winner of this battle Saturday will very likely win the B. A. A. banner. With this at stake it is expected to be the greatest game of the season for either team.

BISHOPS POINT FOR WOOSTER SATURDAY

Ohio Wesleyan Squad Picks Up After Winning from Denison

Delaware, Oct. 28—Enthused over the improvement they showed in the victory over Denison last week, Ohio Wesleyan's football men are buckling down this week to hard work in preparation for their Ohio conference battle with Wooster here Saturday.

"Watch Blough!" That is the warning issued the Bishops by coaches. It was Pete Blough who last year almost single-handed, or more correctly, single-footed gave Wesleyan a 23-7 setback. He booted three field goals from around the 35-yard mark and his forward passing, punting and running also were instrumental in his team's fetory.

Blough this year is repeating his 1926 performance according to those who have seen him in action. The Bishops feel that if he is watched closely it will go a long way toward halting the Wooster offensive machine.

Wesleyan survived the Denison tilt without further injury to any of the players and the entire squad is expected to be in excellent trim for Wooster. Tilton, veteran tackle, played part of the Denison game but after Wesleyan scored he was removed from the lineup to prevent any possible aggravation to his injury. He and Abbey, the other regular tackle, likely will hold down their old position against Wooster although, Salter, a comer, may get the call for one of the posts.

Helwig, end, and Waid and Breese, halves, all of whom have been injured, will be ready for action Saturday.

Heeney-Sharkey Affair One of Major Affairs in Heavyweight Elimination

New York, Oct. 28—Ticket sales for the Tom Heeney-Jack Sharkey fight at Madison Square Garden Nov. 18 were experiencing decided gains today under the impetus of Heeney's impressive showing over Johnny Risko, at Detroit, Wednesday night. The coming bout is looked upon as one of the outstanding affairs in Tex Rickard's elimination series conducted with the view of establishing an opponent for Champion Tunney.

GOOD JOB OPEN

Yale Publication Suggests Unpaid Coach to Fill Jones' Place

New Haven, Oct. 28—That an unpaid coach be selected by Yale as successor to football mentor Tad Jones, if Jones lives up to his resignation effective at the end of the season, was the innovation urged on the school today by the Yale Alumni Weekly. Other universities would be urged to follow Yale's example which the publication held would tremendously benefit American amateur sport.

MENU IS APPROVED BY LADIES' AID SOCIETY

Caledonia, Oct. 28—A menu of escalloped chicken, mashed potatoes, gravy, cabbage, apple salad, pickles, bread, butter, jelly, pie, cake, peaches and coffee, presented by the committee, for the Thanksgiving chicken supper to be served at the M. E. Church dining room Saturday, Nov. 19, was approved at a meeting of the Aid Society held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Crum yesterday afternoon. Committees were appointed and further plans will be completed at the next meeting which will be at the home of Mrs. C. A. Highly Thursday afternoon, Nov. 17.

Mrs. A. R. Glaze had charge of the devotional period. She used for the scripture reading the 37th Psalm and offered prayer. Twenty-nine members responded to roll call. Two guests were present. Following the business session, Mrs. Crum and her assistant hostesses, Mrs. Ida Lyons and Mrs. Florence Blair, served a nice lunch which was in keeping with Hallowe'en.

BOOSTER MEETING IS PLANNED BY PYTHIANS

Event Will Be Held Latter Part of November or Early December

Plans for holding a county Knights of Pythias "booster meeting" during the latter part of November or early in December are nearing completion with indications that the gathering will be one of the largest and most important held by Marion County Pythians in recent years, according to reports submitted at the weekly session of Marion Company, No. 15, Uniform Rank, last night.

Representatives of the Uniform rank are visiting lodges throughout the county outlining plans for the event. The company will not hold its regular weekly session next Thursday night, and instead the members will attend lodge meetings in LaRue and Prospect to present plans for the county gathering.

It was announced that a bowling team will be organized to represent Canby Lodge No. 51 and the Uniform Rank and Arthur Seffner and W. E. Fetter were appointed to form the team.

CLARIDON DELEGATE RETURNS FROM MEETING

Caledonia, Oct. 28 — Miss Donna Crum has returned from Norwood, a suburb of Cincinnati, where she attended the annual State Young People's Conference held there Oct. 21 to 23. Miss Crum represented the Claridon Township Sunday School and was the only representative from Marion County. She was accompanied by Mrs. V. E. Shoots, of Marion, who is superintendent of the Marion County Young People's Association.

STATES NEURITIS CENTERED IN HIS ARMS AND LIMBS

Could Hardly Stand Pains, But Konjola Ended All Misery; Says Marion Citizen.

"In the more severe cases of neuritis, the pains are piercing—just like hot daggers cutting into the nerves," said The Konjola Man a few days ago at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is introducing the new medical product, Konjola, to the people of Marion and vicinity.

"Many authorities have stated that the agony of neuritis is likened unto an electrical shock; the shooting pains may grab the sufferer at frequent intervals. Some call this affliction neuralgia, others say it is like rheumatism, but, in either event, it is a terrible affliction and one of the most agonizing diseases that mankind is heir to," continued the Konjola Man.

It is surprising what this new medical preparation, Konjola, will accomplish in so many instances of neuritis suffering. By invigorating the inner organs to healthy action, and stimulating the liver and kidneys, the poisons throughout the system are eliminated; the nerves become stronger, and within a brief space of time, this Konjola brings amazing relief to the neuritis sufferer. Where drugs and heart-weakening chemicals only produce temporary relief, this Konjola seems to go to the very seat of the trouble, and restores a healthy, normal condition in a natural way, so that the pains do not return. Many Marion people have taken Konjola for the suffering pains of neuritis, and instances of complete recovery are reported day after day. Just recently, Mr. George R. Tobey, well-known Marion citizen, living at R. F. D. 2, this city, made the following remarkable statement:

"For five years I had neuritis," he said. "The pains centered in my arms and limbs, and in the back of my neck. I could hardly stand the agony at times, because it was worse than torture. I felt like nothing would ever reach my suffering. I tried special treatments, medicines and remedies, and I don't know how many attempts I have made to regain my health, but I will say that everything put together was less effective than this Konjola. This new medicine began to relieve me within only a few days, and I noticed in a little while that the pains didn't come over me quite so often. As I continued to take Konjola I improved steadily, and at the present time, I will state that I am free of pains and suffering without an free of pains and suffering in every way. My head and neck is no longer affected and I can walk without any pain at all in my legs. With my neuritis finally gone, I am feeling like a younger man, and I have Konjola to thank for my new health. I cannot help but praise it."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump and Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by all dependable druggists in every town throughout this whole section.—Adv.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

A Gripping of the Heart

A sudden gripping of the heart, then a feeling that it has stopped completely—that's a serious sign. Many people today suffer heart trouble as a result of system-poisoning. It comes from our abnormal living habits which put too great a strain upon the "purification" organ, the liver. The liver becoming sluggish and congested fails to cleanse the blood of poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected. The liver, especially at middle life, needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to health and vitality. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and one or two days' use will prove itself. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol.

AUTO CRASH SUITS HOLD COURT STAGE

One Action Filed, Another Dismissed, Third Set for Trial

Litigation resulting from automobile accidents held the stage in the court of common pleas today. A suit for damages based on a traffic collision was filed, another of the same kind was dismissed, and a third was set for trial in the local court on next Tuesday.

This rather unusual situation is an indication of the steady increase in the number of law suits being filed as the outcome of motorcar accidents, court officials state.

Records show that more actions of this class have been started this year than during any other year in the history of the county.

Court officials and attorneys predict that the increase is likely to continue until the automobile finally becomes the chief cause of court damage suits.

Seeks $3,157.90

The action started today was brought by Omar Williams against Lottie B. Harvey, the plaintiff asking $3,157.90 for injuries alleged to have been sustained in a collision which occurred Aug. 11, 1927, at the intersection of N. Main and Fairground-sts.

The plaintiff relates that he was injured while riding on N. Main-st in an automobile owned and driven by Linden Huffman. He charges that the defendant drove directly into the path of the Huffman machine.

Williams states he was thrown against the windshield and that his head was cut to such an extent that 32 stitches were required to close the wounds. He says that he will be disfigured for life.

His claim of $3,157.90 covers damages for his injuries and also the expense of care and treatment in City Hospital.

The suit was filed through the law firm of Wiedemann & Patton.

Action Dismissed

Action for $5,000 damages brought by Elaine Esparzo against Simon Duckworth, which was the outcome of an automobile collision which occurred about a year ago on Silver-st near Lee-st, was dismissed this morning at request of the plaintiff. It was scheduled for trial before a jury today but the plaintiff through her attorneys decided at the last minute to ask for a dismissal.

The next proceeding scheduled for trial in the court of common pleas is the suit of J. A. Reusch against William Thorp, in which $2,300 damages is sought as the result of an automobile collision which occurred on the Bucyrus-pk, north of Marion on May 29. Reusch says that he was seriously injured and his car partly wrecked and alleges that careless driving on the part of Thorp caused the accident.

Files Counter Claim

Clifford E. Graham, who was sued in the court of common pleas recently for $100, represented to be the price he agreed to pay for a cow purchased from Clara J. Mann, declares in his answer filed today that instead of owing the $100 there is $130.50 due him for providing board and lodgings for the cow.

The animal was sold at an auction held on the Mann farm near Waldo on Nov. 24, 1925. Graham purchased it on his bid of $100 and he alleges that after finding that the animal was not as represented he refused to pay. He says that Mrs. Mann agreed to take the cow back but neglected to carry out the agreement. His claim for $130.50 covers the cost of keeping the animal after deducting value of the milk which it produced.

The case was decided in Graham's favor in the court of John W. Grigsby, justice of the peace at Waldo and was appealed to the court of common pleas by the plaintiff.

In his answer, filed through the law firm of Donithen & Donithen, Graham asks that the petition be dismissed and judgment awarded him for $130.50.

WHY YOUR STOMACH GRUMBLES

Your stomach "grumbles" because it tries to tell you it is out of order. Heed its warning, for although the trouble may not yet be serious, it is often the forerunner of severe gastritis and stomach ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To restore good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

INTELLIGENCE NOT JUDGED BY LOOKS

University Professor Says Man's Appearance No Index to Mental Ability

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

Columbus, Oct. 28—That it is impossible to determine the intelligence of a man by his outward appearance, is the stand taken by Prof. Harold E. Burtt, instructor of psychology at Ohio Ohio State University.

"You cannot pick mental traits of a man as you can physical traits," Professor Burtt declared at a meeting of the Ohio State University Club, here recently.

In his talk on "The Development of the Personnel Movement and Its Application To Industry and Education," Dr. Burtt outlined a history of the development of the psychology test system down to the present time.

"We were not aware of the fact that it was impossible to size up a man's brain by viewing his outward appearance until the present generation because we had no way to prove our beliefs," the professor stated.

Several noted Ohio educators were present at the meeting of the university club when Dr. Burtt gave his talk on psychology. Among the most prominent were: Dr. H. E. Shaw, president of Denison University; W. C. Clippinger, president of Otterbein College; A. G. Caris, president of Defiance College and Edward S. Boswirth, dean of men, Oberlin College.

CAROL FAVOR GROWS

Passengers from Roumania Say Movement Gaining Strength

Sofia, Oct. 28—Passengers on trains arriving here today from Roumania, declared that the movement in favor of placing former Prince Carol on the throne now occupied by his son, Michael, was growing in strength every day.

They reported that Carol is known already to have declared himself king and is being referred to by his adherents as "majesty." It was also reported that the Bratianu government is fully in control of the situation.

JOY COMES TO KANSAS CITY WOMAN

Face was almost covered with pimples

Simple treatment makes skin smooth and clear

Kansas City, Mo., June 12:—"I am delighted with Resinol Soap and Ointment, they have benefited my skin so much. The soap leaves it so smooth and gives just the results I have been looking for. I had pimples and blackheads almost covering my face at one time, but by using both soap and ointment I have succeeded in conquering the disorder. I tried several other remedies, but didn't get any results. We take both Resinol Soap and Ointment with us on our vacation trips as we find them always needed, and the ointment is especially good for almost any kind of insect bites."—(Signed) Mrs. Carl Schulze, 2311 Wabash Ave.

Washington

Green Is Unlike Gompers, Yet Carries Out Policies

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Star Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, re-elected a few days ago, is about as different from the late Samuel Gompers, his predecessor, as it's possible to imagine.

WILLIAM GREEN

And yet he seems to have been created for Gompers' old job just as especially as Gompers created it to suit himself in the first place.

It was a job which Gompers was a good fit for, of course, being the designer of it. How the master minds of the American Federation were able to tell, in advance, that Green could mold himself into it so accurately is something of a mystery.

THERE was no accident about it. Gompers died in office. It was the duty of the federation's little executive group in Washington to choose a successor for the balance of his term.

It behoored them to choose wisely, for it is not a post in which much changing is desirable.

The responsibility was heavy on the men charged with the selection and they made it prayerfully—literally.

* * *

THAT Gompers was not approximately duplicated isn't surprising, for another man of his type would have been hard to find, but Green is of almost an opposite type.

For all that, he fills the bill, apparently to perfection.

Gompers was the ideal of his work, at the time he was doing it, and now that the task has changed quite radically, Green's another ideal, under the new conditions.

The men who picked him, picked him too deliberately not to be given credit for deciding on him as a feat of straight brain-work and good judgment, and it really was a remarkable performance—hitting it as exactly as they did, in spite of the radical departure they were making from their original model.

GOMPERS was a genius and Green is the embodiment sound common sense.

Gompers was fiery and impatient.

Green is cool, unhurried—but efficient—and substantial.

Gompers was the man to build the American Federation up, and he did build it up, and Green, if looks signify anything, is the man to hold it together.

Gompers was a great man—which is by no means to imply that Green isn't.

Only Gompers knew he was. He was entirely too great to put on any airs about it, but it was obvious that he had himself correctly estimated in his own mind.

Green's as unassuming as the "old shoe" they tell about.

GOMPERS was the character to start from "scratch" and wind up with an empire.

Green, as I size him, has the qualifications to take the [illegible] and administer it wisely.

No doubt it's sacrilege to say [illegible] but Samuel Gompers [illegible] as a magnificent old [illegible]

William Green gives [illegible] vision of a fine specimen of the best the common people have to offer.

"Labor" strikes me as having borrowed Gompers in an emergency.

Green's a normal, natural president of the American Federation of Labor.

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

IN the engrossing style of [illegible] earlier fiction [illegible] Geese" and "Dark Dawn", Martha Ostenso has just written a new book, "The Mad Carews", which [illegible] this month promises to be one of the most popular novels of the year.

Like the earlier books, "The Mad Carews" has for its background the same sordid condition of life, the hard-working, simple class of people and for its plot, the solving of a problem of human nature.

The new book, however, introduces a type of character new to the pen of Martha Ostenso, in the "Mad Carews", a domineering, powerful family, forced to the peaceful prairie farmland in northern Minnesota where they had gone to make their home. To Elsa Bowers, daughter of one of the easygoing farmers who inhabited the region, as to all the simple-minded folk of the countryside, the Carews were a "fabulous family escaped from between the covers of a story book," strangers to the farmers and farmers' wives in their air of appearance, wealth, haughty and quietly domineering manner, their love of adventure, their passion for the beauties and ease of life.

Family Skeleton

With all their fortune, the Carews were ever-concealing a family skeleton in the successive disgraces brought upon them by the men of the family as a result of their many "adventures", socially, financially, but always after the Carew manner, loftily. It became the fate of the Carew women to bear the burden, conceal the skeleton, maintain the family air of prestige.

It was into this family that Elsa, out of an inborn desire to taste of life, as she had never experienced it as a Bowers, marries, in a vain hope of escaping submission to the colorless life about her that would come with marriage with the carefree, satisfied man, a farmer at heart, whom it had been her misfortune to love.

Elsa's struggle to find a confiding love for the husband she adores, admires, and hates at once, her continued efforts to escape becoming a "Carew woman", ever hiding the family disgraces, loving the "Carew men" passionately and eagerly accepting the little love they saw fit to give in return, make up the remainder of the book.

Story Well Written

The climax comes when the young husband, typically a Carew with the exception of his deep love for his young wife, chooses life with her in the peaceful farmland she has grown daily to love, in preference to the mad life of the Carew family, who, their fortunes altered, are quitting the community for new exploits, in search of new fortune and power.

The story, as all three of the delightful books by that author are, is beautifully told, written with an understanding of life, of human nature, that is unusual even in these days of the realistic novel. "The Mad Carews," although typically Ostenso, is less startlingly original in plot than the earlier books, predicting, perhaps, something totally different, less dramatic, less like life, in the next book by Martha Ostenso.

"FATHER MISSISSIPPI"
BY LYLE SAXON

A FASCINATING picture of the explorations, plantation life and showboat days of the Mississippi River as well as a vivid account of the recent floods, is Lyle Saxon's new book, "Father Mississippi," just published by The Century Co.

Saxon, a native southerner, spent a lifetime along the shores of the "Father of Waters," learning of its habits, its part in the life of man, gathering all [illegible] knowledge of the great river into one volume when he wrote "Father Mississippi."

In addition to his story of the river, Mr. Saxon tells of the human history [illegible] side along its banks, opening his book [illegible] on a prologue, "Plantation," in which the scene is his boyhood home, he characters the quiet, unpretentious people that lived along the river, designated by Mr. Saxon as his "aunts" and "uncles."

YOUNGSTERS NOT TO WANT FOR MATERIAL

VERY young bookworms, particularly, will not want for good reading material during the coming winter months or so, a glance at the forthcoming junior publications will show.

Heading the list of popular juvenile books, is, of course, another of the A. A. Milne stories, "Now We Are Six," quite as delightful as "When We Were Very Young" and "Winnie-the-Pooh." The new book, written with the simplicity and delicate humor that children love, is illustrated by Ernest H. Shepard.

"Gay Neck, the story of a pigeon," will prove equally as interesting to the older boys and girls, especially the ones who have already had a taste of Dhan Gopal Mukerji's captivating style in "Kari the Elephant," and "Hari the Jungle Lad." The graceful picturing of India and presentation of a philosophy of life both spiritual and practical, will serve to attract the adult reader.

Of an entirely different cast is Clara D. Pierson's new story of "The Plucky Allens," entitled "The Allens and Aunt Hannah," or "Deedah's Wonderful Year." A new story about the delightful family who lived in the pages of "Makeshift Farm" and "Island Farm." Hildegarde Hawthorne is the author.

One of the most promising books of adventure is "Adventurers All," by Mary H. Wade. The book includes accounts of the life of seven great men and women, the account to continue with stories of Woodrow Wilson the adventurer for world peace, and Charles Lindbergh, the "adventurer into space."

FIRST NOVEL BY ROSAMOND LEHMANN

ALREADY included in the lists of best sellers is Rosamond Lehmann's extraordinary novel, "Dusty Answer," which Arnold Bennett calls the "most discussed and best beloved novel by a woman since 'The Constant Nymph.'" It is a first novel.

THIRTEEN STORIES ABOUT CHRISTMAS

Under the title, "An Old-Fashioned Christmas," Reginald Townsend, editor of "Country Life", has gathered 13 stories of Christmas, which have made their first appearance in his magazine. The volume contains every kind of tale from the sombre Swedish folk narrative to Christopher Morley's whimsical glory of the tree that didn't get trimmed. There are a few such notes as Walter Prichard Eaton's "A White Christmas."

"EAST SIDE, WEST SIDE" IS DONE INTO PLAY

"East Side, West Side," Fritz Rosenberg, has just been made into a play with collaboration of the author and Fay Pulsifer.

HARCOURT, BRACE PUBLICATIONS

JUST announced by Harcourt, Brace & Co., are the following [illegible] publications, "Venture End," Karin Michaelis, author of "The Dangerous Age"; "Ali Baba and Other Plays for Young People or Puppets", Helen Haiman Joseph; "Magpie Lane," Nancy Byrd Turner; "The Story of Naughty Kildeen," Marie, Queen of Rumania; "Genuis and Character," Ludwig; a new standard [illegible] of Papini's "Life of Christ," "Jo[illegible]'s Coming of Age", Rexford G. Tugwell; "Living Machinery," A. V. Hill; "Later Greek Sculpture," A. W. Lawrence.

SELMA LAGERLOF WRITES NEW BOOK

"JUST BETWEEN US GIRL" OUT

Readers of "Life" and "Vanity Fair," who have enjoyed the quaint antics and jargon of Sandie, the irrepressible debutante, will be interested in appearance of a book of Sandie's own, "Just Between Us Girls," just published by Doubleday, Page & Co. Sandie's story is the diary of a girl who leaves both her home town and Europe "practically speechless" over her antics. Illustrations are by Kliz.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOVEL OF LUDWIG II

"The Midnight King," a biographical novel of the last days of Ludwig II of Bavaria, from the pen a George Delamare, a prominent young French writer, has just been published by the Rae D. Henkle Co. It is said to shed a new light on a critical period in the construction of the German Empire.

NEW VOLUME OF VERSE OUT BY VIOLET ALLEYN

A new volume of verse by a poet whose work has attained wide popular favor with successive appearances in magazines, is "Green of the Year," by Violet Alleyn Storey. The book has an appeal for varying tastes and moods and is representative of that poet's work as a whole.

"MY EIGHTY YEARS" BY CHARLES F. DOLE

An unusual autobiography, published this month, is Charles F. Dole's "My Eighty Years," the record of a New England minister, of the events of his own life and of an interesting phase of American history.

"SIXTEEN TO FORTY" AUTHOR SOUGHT

"WHO is Marna?" is the question in the minds of readers of "Sixteen to Forty", an amazingly frank autobiography by "Marna." Many think to identify her by tracing the story of her life and successes in England, others by her portrait on the frontispiece.

"I KNOW A SECRET" WRITTEN BY MORLEY

Christopher Morley has just published his first book for boys and girls under the title "I Know a Secret." The little volume is a group of whimsical tales of the children and animals who play in the backyard of the Morley home.

Water Softening Plant Is Expected To Be Finished Early Part of December

Six Huge Steel Tanks Being Constructed West of City; Unavoidable Delays Causes Work To Continue Two Months Longer Than Scheduled

"A Study in Steel" would be an appropriate name for the water softening plant which is being built by the Marion Water Co., at its plant west of the city. Six steel tanks, ranging in capacity from 210 ton for lime and soda ash to 2,000,000 gallon for the softened water, are under construction.

With the continuation of favorable weather it is expected the plant will be completed by the early part of December. Unavoidable delays will bring the completion of the plant two months later than was first planned, it was stated today by George Whysall, general manager of the water company.

Two large steel tanks, with copper bottoms, and supported on three steel legs that raise them to a level of 15 feet above the ground, and which have a capacity of 210 tons each, stand at the head of the plant. One of these tanks will contain soda ash and the other lime, the only products used in softening the water. Automatic weighers and feeders will carry these two products in just the right proportions to two large mixing tanks, also constructed of steel, and which are located just at the rear of the lime and soda ash tanks.

Tank Capacity

Each of the mixing tanks will have a capacity of 375,000 gallons. They are so arranged that one or both can be used. Chemical analysis of the water as it comes from the wells will be made at regular intervals in order that just the proper amount of soda ash and lime are mixed with the water to obtain the best results.

After leaving the huge mixture tanks where the greatest care will be used to obtain thorough mixing, the water will be pumped into the first settling tank, a huge mass of steel plates, 125 feet in diameter, 24 feet high, with a capacity of 2,000,000 gallons. The water will be fed into this tank through a "still well," a tank 20 feet in diameter and suspended from a steel bridge which rests on concrete piers and extends the entire width of the tank.

The water will be fed through this "still well" in order that there will be as little stirring of the water in the settling tank as possible. Extending down through this "well" will be a large shaft, weighing 3,000 pounds, and extending to the bottom of the settling tank, to the end of which will be attached long arms reaching to the edge of the tank. To these arms will be attached steel plates placed at an angle. The arms will turn slowly, the steel plates scraping the lime as it settles from the water, into a hopper in the center of the tank.

Second Tank

The water is then pumped into a second settling tank, of the same size as the first tank. The second settling tank will not be equipped with the scraping device but will have a "still well" in the center. The water will flow slowly from this tank and over troughs which will receive the remaining lime. It will then be pumped into the carbonating tank for final treatment and then into the reservoir.

Designed to cost approximately $157,000, the plant will in reality cost between $160,000 and $165,000 before completed, Mr. Whysall said yesterday.

WITNESS SAVED FROM TELLING BONDS ORIGIN

Constitutional Rights Invoked by Fall's Son-in-Law on Stand

Washington, Oct. 28 The constitutional rights of an individual not to testify in court if such testimony would incriminate him today saved M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, from telling the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial jury where he got $230,500 in Liberty Bonds which he deposited to his father-in-law's credit in 1922.

Justice Frederick Siddons so ruled today after Everhart had refused to testify as to the origin of the bonds.

The prosecution charged that these bonds came from a now defunct concern controlled by Harry F. Sinclair, New York oil magnate, and were in the nature of a bribe to Fall for giving Sinclair a secretly executed lease on the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve.

Might Imprison Him

Owen K. Roberts, federal prosecutor, had demanded that Everhart be compelled to answer his question, declaring that even should the witness' answer co-conspirator, and the statute of limitations would save him from prosecution.

Siddons, however, said there was a possibility that Everhart would be a co-conspirator, and the state of limitations would not apply to that charge. Roberts had contended the worst that could be developed against Everhart would be to find him an accessory after the fact.

Charles A. Douglas, Everhart's attorney, in successfully arguing that his client should not be compelled to answer, based his entire argument on the assumption Fall and Sinclair were guilty as charged.

"Why," he exclaimed, "if you compel this man to answer, you may well be forming the chains of the penitentiary around him."

More Questions Fired

Balked in his attempt to force an answer to the specific question "from whom did you get those bonds?" Roberts promptly put Everhart back on the stand and pumped some more leading questions into him so the jury would be impressed that a relative of one of the defendants was afraid he would lay himself open to prosecution if he testified.

Everhart first declined to identify Fall's handwriting in a stock book but the court forced him to.

He next refused to state for whom he is trustee for 33 shares of stock in the Fall-controlled Tres Ritos Cattle and Land Co. They are held in the name of his dead wife.

"On what ground do you decline?" asked Roberts.

"On the ground it might tend to incriminate me," replied the witness.

CONFESSES SLAYING

Akron, Oct. 28—Police say Peter Farenzo, 67, Aultman, Ohio, has confessed killing Mrs. Elizabeth Burke, 39, of Aultman, following a quarrel in South Akron Wednesday night. Farenzo was arrested late Thursday by city detectives after a search started when the woman was found with her throat slashed.

KIDNEYS MUST HAVE PLENTY OF WATER

Also Take Salts Occasionally if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. —Adv.

Police Say Negroes Loaded $850 Instrument on Truck, Fled

Columbus, Oct. 28 Two negroes and a harp were being sought by police here today while officials of the new Columbus Auditorium were explaining to visitors the loss of the celestial instrument, valued at $850.

According to a police report, the negroes boldly removed the stringed instrument in its shipping case, as employes of the auditorium looked on, loaded it upon a light truck and drove away.

DAMAGE AT SCHURLIE HOME FIRE, $1,500

Loss Covered by Insurance; Entire Roof of Dwelling Destroyed

Loss from the fire which destroyed the roof and a portion of the second floor at the home of Mrs. F. J. Schurlie, Franklin-st, yesterday afternoon, was estimated by Fire Chief McFarland this morning at $1,500. It is covered by insurance.

When discovered by neighbors, who called the fire department, the blaze had made only small headway. The dried shingles burned rapidly, however, and when the department arrived a few minutes later, the entire roof was ablaze. Two lines of hose were laid and the fire was extinguished after it had destroyed the roof and burned through the ceiling on the second floor.

The body of Mr. Schurlie, which was in the front room on the first floor was carried by neighbors to the home of Frank C. Geggenheimer on the opposite side of the street and was later taken to the chapel at the Curtis Funeral Home on E. Center-st, where funeral services were held this afternoon.

BUS LINE ADDS TWO TRIPS TO SCHEDULE

Reduction in Fare from Marion to Mt. Gilead Is Announced

A reduction in the bus fare from this city to Mt. Gilead and the addition of two trips, was announced this morning by Shuff & Mason, of Mt. Vernon, who operate the line. The new fare to Mt. Gilead which becomes effective Monday, will be 70 cents, a reduction of 10 cents over the present rate. It was also announced that the reduction would apply through to Mt. Vernon, the new rate being $1.75. The present fare is $1.90.

The two additional trips to be made by the bus will be out of Mt. Gilead at 7:10 in the morning and out Marion at 7:30 in the evening. The latter trip will be run each day except Saturday when the time will be extended until 9:30.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY MEETS AT FARM HOME

Members of the Ladies' Aid Society, Prospect Street M. E. Church were entertained at an all-day meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. William Risch, five miles north of the city. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. William Wanner, Mrs. John Schott, Mrs. Edward Ladd and Mrs. Edward Brandt. Sixty-five members and guests enjoyed a cafeteria dinner and later a program was given. Rev. Karl W. Patow conducted the devotional services. Mrs. John Schott contributed a reading, "The Ladies Aid," and Mrs. LeRoy Diehl and Mrs. Harry Wilhelm entertained with a vocal duet. Mrs. Elizabeth Chalfant gave a reading, "Vanity" and the program concluded with a group of readings by Mrs. Paul Sprang. Plans were made for a chicken supper, Nov. 10. The next regular meeting of the society will be in one month.

GOLF ACCIDENT LEADS TO DEATH OF OHIOAN

Columbus, Oct. 28—Funeral arrangements for Lee Katz, 52, proprietor of the Katz-Reyce Haberdashery Co., who died in Grant Hospital here last night following a two months' illness, will be announced today. Katz dislocated a vertebra while playing golf several weeks ago, and though doctors say that he died from a heart attack, it is thought that the dislocated vertebra was at least indirectly responsible for his death.

FIND FORMER CASHIER GUILTY IN BANK CASE

St. Clairsville, Oct. 28 The jury trying William Thomas, former cashier of the Bridgeport Banking Co., on a charge of falsifying bank records, today returned a verdict of guilty after deliberating all night.

Thomas was tried on the first of 21 indictments resulting from the collapse of the bank, which was closed after shortages totaling $300,000 were revealed by state bank examiners this summer.

JEALUOS HUSBAND KILLS WIFE, THEN HER SISTER

New Orleans, Oct. 28—With Joseph Moity in jail, his brother, Henry Moity, was sought on land and sea today in connection with the murder of their wives, whose mutilated bodies were found stuffed in a trunk in the French quarter district here.

Henry, according to his brother, Joseph, was jealous over attentions his wife had accepted from other men. He killed her and then to cover up the crime killed Joseph's wife, cutting the bodies to pieces so they could be stuffed into the trunk, police said.

OWNER OF ABANDONED SEDAN CLAIMS AUTO

Driver Faces Charge of Operating Car While Intoxicated; Pleads Not Guilty

When the owner of the Buick sedan which was abandoned on N. Sandusky early Wednesday morning after the wheels on one side had dropped into the trench being dug for the foundation for the new street car track, appeared at police headquarters to claim the machine yesterday afternoon, he found himself facing a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

The driver of the machine who gave his name as Fred Drake, a plasterer living on Lincoln-av, said he had run the machine over the trench but entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated when arraigned before Municipal Judge William R. Martin. He was released under $100 bond for his appearance in court Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Witnesses say that after driving the car over the edge of the trench, the driver abandoned the machine without attempting to obtain help. It was later removed by garage men and turned over to the police.

Dr. B. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church gave a talk in which he urged support of the Marshall Bill at the coming election, at the meeting of members of Frances Willard W. C. T. U. Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Guy Ducat, Patten-st. The meeting, which was well attended was in charge of the president, Mrs. Emma Bain. Following a song and scripture service the roll call was answered with Scripture passages. Mrs. Cora Smith gave an interesting talk on "Benjamin Franklin's Experience with Beer in the Printing Office," and Mrs. William Sifritt's paper was on the subject, "Is Alcohol a Stimulant?" "How the World Fooled Itself", was discussed by Mrs. Guy Ducat and Mrs. A. G. Lilley presented an interesting discussion of "The Man at the Wheel." "Does Your Typist Drink?" was the subject of a paper by Mrs. George Otims. Guests of the meeting were Mrs. Frank Peters and Miss Moretta Jean Fluelling. The next meeting will be Nov. 16, with Mrs. Ethe Neal, E. Church-st.

TWO STARS ARE BACK IN KENTON HIGH LINEUP

Kenton, Oct. 28—When the Kenton high school football team meets Tiffin high there Saturday, they will enter the game with a much stronger line-up than appeared against Carey a week ago, according to Coach George Burkett.

Barker, laid up for two games with a wrenched knee and bad muscles in his leg, will be back at the quarter position while Sharp is expected to fill one of the halfback positions, his ankle having sufficiently mended to enable him to play.

ELI SMITH PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO POSSESSION

Eli Smith, 38, of 131 Scioto-st arrested yesterday morning by Patrolman Howard Andrews on the Kenton-pk, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquors when arraigned before Judge Martin in municipal court this morning and his hearing was set for 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Harry Stevens, 41, of 176 Glad-st, who was arrested with Smith, is being held at police headquarters. No charge has yet been placed against him. The two were arrested by Andrews after Smith is said to have extracted the can of liquor from beneath some bushes along the Kenton-pk and deposited it in his machine.

FINED $10, COSTS

Mike Duffy, 46, arrested at Silver and Leader-sts last night on a charge of intoxication, was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning when he entered a plea of guilty to the charge.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Harry Jones, Mrs. T. F. Gogerty and Mrs. C. W. Schaefer. Mrs. William Neherall received honors for the homeliest costume and Mrs. L. S. Clark for the prettiest costume. Mrs. Earl Harrod was awarded the honors for guessing the largest number of the masqueraders and Mrs. W. A. Delops was rewarded. Witches pumpkin faces and other Hallowe'en emblems were used to decorate the rooms and a lunch, suggestive of the season was served.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES HELD BY STUDENTS

Harding High Pupils To Celebrate Season with Quiver Carnival

Hallowe'en was observed with masquerade parties and frolic in a number of the grades of various schools over the city this afternoon. Harding High School students will hold their annual Quiver Carnival and Hallowe'en festival at 7:15 o'clock tonight at the school, more than 200 students and teachers taking part in the entertainment provided for the event.

A small admission fee is charged for the entertainments, the money to be added to the fund for the Quiver Annual, the school yearbook. The affair is arranged as the annual homecoming for alumni, parents of students and patrons of the school as well as the student body, being particularly invited to attend.

Arrangements are in charge of Miss Lucile Fortman, faculty advisor of the Quiver, and members of the staff.

HILLS REUNITED

Montana Millionaire and Follies Beauty on Second Honeymoon

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 28.—Reunited, Walter J. Hill, Montana millionaire, and his wife, Mildred Richardson Hill, former Follies Beauty, were in Seattle today on their "second honeymoon."

Hill showed no disposition whatsoever to discuss his plans. In fact, he was exceedingly gruff when questioned.

"No, I don't care to see anyone," he said. "Neither do I care to talk to anyone. Life seems to be one interruption after another."

No further information was forthcoming from Hill other than the reluctant statement that he and his wife expected to remain here for several days—days he let it be known, that reporters could make him happier by removing themselves far, far away from himself.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Calvary Evangelical Group Guests at Hallowe'en Party

Members of Calvary Evangelical Sunday School Orchestra were entertained at a Hallowe'en party last night at the home of Mrs. Pauline Zachman, 154 N. Seffner-av. During a short business session the orchestra organized by electing Simon Hartuff, manager; F. W. Wollinger, director; Ed. Smothers, assistant director; Raymond Deboldt, librarian and Ed. Smothers and Miss Pauline Zachman members of the membership committee. The rooms were decorated in keeping with Hallowe'en and a Hallowe'en lunch was served. The guests spent the time with music and games.

Paris, Oct. 28—Mrs. Margaret Morgan Guggenheim today filed suit for divorce from Meyer Robert Guggenheim, saying her husband refused to live with her. They were married at Paris on July 10, 1915.

Mrs. Caroline Lowe Scott filed suit for divorce from Pierre Dodge Schenck on ground of desertion. They were married at Watson, Lewis County, New York, on Aug. 16, 1904.

HISTORIC COVERLETS ENTERED IN EXHIBIT

Close to 250 Quilts Turned in for Kiwanis Benefit Show

With close to 250 quilts and coverlets already entered and many others arranged for members of the Marion Kiwanis Club today expressed the belief that the benefit show planned at the Star Auditorium Nov. 4 and 5 will be an even greater success than had been anticipated.

Scores of old quilts and coverlets with unusual histories are to be displayed and in all probability histories will be attached to the most unusual.

Among the exhibits that have been turned in so far to Dr. Fred A. Stengel, who is in charge of the show, is a patch quilt made in 1855 by Nancy Coats Goodspeed, who lived in the old Coats homestead at Athens which stood on the site of the State Hospital.

Miss Mary Hawk, who had the first sewing machine in that section of the state and who later became the wife of United States Senator Jerry Carpenter, worked one block of the quilt pattern on her sewing machine. The owner decided to do the remainder of the work by hand, fearful that the machine would not do it properly.

The quilt now is the property of Mary Beasley Dean, a resident of this city, who is a granddaughter of the woman who made it.

Proceeds from the benefit show will be used to finance the Kiwanis Children's Fresh Air Camp.

MRS. CALLIE GERLACH DIES OF APOPLEXY

FORMER RESIDENT OF KENTON SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Emma Davis, 74, Dies at Daughter's Home in Iowa

Kenton, Oct. 28—Relatives have received word of the death of Mrs. Emma Davis, 74, former prominent Kenton resident, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Thurman, Shreveport, La.

The deceased was the widow of the late S. K. Davis who died in Kenton in April, 1927. Mrs. Davis was born near Marseilles, May 5, 1853 and had spent the greater part of her life in Kenton and Hardin County. She went to live with her daughter following the death of the husband.

Surviving are the daughter, one sister, Mrs. Letta Kalb of California, and two brothers, C. L. and R. G. Merriman, both of Kenton.

The body will arrive in Kenton Friday night and funeral services will be conducted from the C. L. Merriman home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. C. J. Yeisley, pastor of the First M. E. church, in charge. Interment in Grove Cemetery.

COUNTY VETERINARIAN ADDRESSES FARMERS

Bucyrus, October 28—About 60 Vernon Township farmers and cattle owners met at Liberty Corners in that township to hear Dr. H. A. Deuneswitz, Bucyrus, Crawford County veterinarian in charge of tuberculosis cattle testing here.

The meeting was held to acquaint the cattle owners of the township with the methods used in testing cattle.

The tests are now being conducted in Vernon Township and according to reports Wednesday night, are meeting with favor.

OPERATORS SAY TIME FOR DICKERING PAST

Cleveland, Oct. 28—"The time has passed for Ohio coal operators to consider any further dickering with the United Mine Workers Union," was the substance of a statement issued here today by the Ohio Coal Operators Association in answer to a statement from Columbus, Thursday, attributed to Lee Hall, president of the Ohio U. M. W. offering to negotiate a wage scale to apply to Ohio mines.

Stop Monnett Is Harding Battle Cry As Bucyrus Game Nears

Red And Black Hopes To Keep League Slate Clean In Toughest Assignment

No More Scrimmage for Locals Before Game; Developments of Week May Cause Coach Bohyer To Make Some Changes in Lineup

Sports Editor of The Star

STOP Monnett is the cry of Harding High School gridders as the Bucyrus game looms less than 24 hours away. The Bucyrus quarter back is a hard hitter and does some beautiful running once he gets loose. Ashland can testify to that as it was this Monnett that made things miserable for the Black and Orange las Saturday as he has done for a number of other opponents this season.

Toughest Yet

That the Bucyrus outfit will be the toughest proposition the Red and Black has been up against this year is no pessimist's dream. Bucyrus tied Ashland six all and although Harding won by an edge of two touchdowns over this same team on the previous Saturday, the score was no indication of their comparative strength. Harding's last touchdown can be credited to nothing but a lucky break. The Ashland safety man touched a punt that rolled over the goal line and was downed by a Harding end. And football teams can't win consistently on breaks of the game. For breaks are sometimes bad breaks.

It might be said that Harding has been getting the breaks all season. Galion, Findlay and Ashland all outplayed the Red and Black in certain respects but none was able to score with the exception of Ashland. But for all that, it is to Harding's credit that the team has been able to take advantage of the breaks when they came.

Long Runs Win

Take the Galion game. Harding won by two touchdowns and one came on a 45-yard run. In the Findlay game another 45 yard run put over the only touchdown. In the Ashland game a 30 yard run and a lucky break gave Harding a two touchdown advantage. In these three games long runs came in mighty handy but by and large there are more touchdowns scored on shorter distances and the teams that gets away with a long run for a touchdown is lucky.

It was decidedly a lucky break that gave Harding a 7 to 0 victory over Findlay. Bish, flashy left half of the Findlay outfit, it will be remembered, ran something like 40 yards for a touchdown before the ball had been in play five minutes. But a lineman was offside and the score was not allowed. A little too much ambition on the part of an opponent saved Harding from a 0 to 7 win or perhaps a tie at seven all.

If it has been lucky breaks that has been winning for Harding there are dark days ahead for the tougher the opposition the less often those breaks come. Hard football games must be won by good football.

Hard Ones To Come

Bucyrus will give Harding the best test it has had this season from all indications. The Red and Black has amassed 68 points to six for the opposition but as yet the team hasn't established itself as the best in the league. The tough ones are to come and they start coming Saturday at the fairgrounds. And they won't stop coming until after the final whistle blows at Shelby Nov. 19, which incidentally will be the last whistle of the season for the Red and Black. Shelby won't be the weakest team the Red and Black will meet this season, even excluding Delaware. After Bucyrus comes Mansfield, then Delaware and Shelby.

But to get back to breaks,—the Red and Black hasn't been winning games by that means alone. The team has been playing football of a sort that wins in its class. Harding has a versatile backfield. It has the speed for broken field running and the power for backing up the line on the defensive. The passing game has been good and the punting better than any team the Red and Black has opposed.

The line is Harding's mystery. At times in every game this season it has been played off its feet and there is apparently no reason why there shouldn't be more than six points checked up against Harding in the record books. After seeing the line brace and hold for downs after being swept down the field there comes a slight suspicion that there might be a little indifference on the part of the players of some positions.

May Change Lineup

Developments this week may cause Coach Bohyer to shift his starting lineup somewhat. Just what changes he will make he has not decided. They will be in the line, however, as the back positions will go to Lowe, quarter; Stafford, full, and McAninch and Garrett, halves. Evans will get the call at center, Rieff and Smith will likely start at tackles. The questionable places are left end and left guard. Lewis may not start at the wing position due to his recent recovery from a cracked collar bone, and developments this week may keep Zimmer, guard, on the bench when the team takes the field. Houghton will start at right end and Captain Kramer at right guard.

There was no scrimmage for the Red and Black last night, nor will there be any tonight. Signal drill and work on the fundamentals was the menu last night and will be repeated tonight.

1,000 GRID FANS TO FOLLOW WITTENBERG TO MIAMI SATURDAY

Will Go on Largest Excursion Train Since Town Went Dry

Springfield, Oct. 28—A thousand voices calling for a touchdown ought to tell the "Fighting Lutherans" at Oxford Saturday that Wittenberg men have the hearty support of the faculty, students and Springfield citizens.

Wittenberg supporters will go to Miami on a train of 20 coaches, baggage cars and two locomotives. The train will provide a special coach for the team and a special coach for the band. According to railroad officials, this is the largest excursion to leave Springfield since the town went dry.

Wittenberg is fighting for a championship this Saturday, and the whole section of the country is aroused over the prospect of a real grid battle in the little town of Oxford.

VANITY

PICK OUT OHIO'S STARTERS

Who will get the call? That is the question in the minds of Ohio State followers as the Buckeyes get their last workout before the Chicago game in the Stadium Saturday afternoon. The recent tempest in Ohio State's football teapot promises to cause a shift in the Ohio outfit.

Captain Meyer may warm the bench, his place being taken by Bill Young who played good ball against Michigan. Eby, flashy halfback, may not play due to a bone separation in his foot. Bob Rowan has been taken from end and put at fullback this week and may start there Saturday. Marek, Kriss, Fouch will likely complete the backfield.

Buckeye Lineup To Be Shifted For Chicago Clash At Ohio Stadium

Bill Young Will Likely Get Captain Meyer's Job at Guard; Deb Rowan Made into Fullback; Eby May Not Get in

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28—Football addicts who have been taking their pastime in bi-weekly doses at the Buckeye Stadium this fall are very likely to rub their eyes in surprise when the Ohio squad trots on the field for Saturday's battle with Alonzo Stagg's Maroons. Apparently there is to be some shuffling of positions, substitutions and general remobilization of the Wilcemen in an effort to stop the Chicago string of Conference victories.

In the line "Bill" Young will probably get a crack at the guard position where he starred at Ann Arbor a week ago. Flankers, according to present indications will be Robin Bell and Alber. The remainder of the shock absorbers will doubtless stay put with Raskowski, Updike, Cox and Ullery getting the heavy duty assignments.

Rowan in Backfield

The most startling change that is likely to crop out appears to be the metamorphosis of "Deb" Rowan from end to fullback. Practice this week has seen the Bucks' big wigwam working behind the line in fine fashion in the position where Ohsner and Cory have been alternating all season. Rowan has always shown a world of drive at his other task and if this can be successfully transferred into line-smashing power there are brighter days ahead for Ohio.

Recent performances of George Fouch make him the most probable started at the quarterback job. The Columbus sophomore has proved his ability as an embryo triple-threat artist and has displayed good judgment as a field general. With his promotion to the quarterback post, Freddy Grim will move to half as running mate and alternate with Eby, Kriss, Marek, Huston et al.

Eby, is more or less of a doubtful quantity. Through the strenuous efforts of trainer, Mike Chambers, he will doubtless be able to play but whether or not it will be considered advisable by the Buckeye coaching force is another matter.

As for Chicago—supposed to be one of the setups of the Conference for 1927—Indiana, Purdue and Pennsylvania can all attest to the impracticability of under-rating the outfit led by Captain Kenneth Rouse. If Spence starts for Chicago here, Ohio will face the identical line that held for the Windy City in 1926. It will be a line that has thoroughly proved its prowess and has benefited by the seasoning of a year ago when the Maroons were going through one of the worst seasons they have ever had.

Captain Rouse was through the Penn line last week time after time, tackling the ball toter before he was fairly under way. His teammates emulate his splendid example to the point where little gain can be expected through any sector.

A close score should be tallied, therefore, regardless of which side of the board shows the largest marker.

FLY TO GAME

30 Columbia Students Desert Side-door Pullmans For Air

New York, Oct. 28.—The "good old days" when side-door pullmans were the deluxe means of traveling with the football squad, received another setback today with the announcement that thirty Columbia students would travel by airplane to Ithaca tomorrow for the Columbia-Cornell game. The boys are paying $40 per head, round trip.

MIAMI, WITTENBERG WILL BATTLE FOR BUCKEYE FLAG AT OXFORD

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 28—Two football championships of the Conference and of the Buckeye Athletic Association will probably be settled tomorrow in the clashes of Wittenberg and Miami at Oxford, and Denison and the University of Cincinnati in the Queen City. With Miami's ends, Fletcher and Auxier both in the hospital and eliminated for the go with the Springfielders, the Lutherans should win hands down.

Up From Bottom

The other championships refers to the percentage column reading up from the bottom. In its three conference games with Wittenberg, Dayton and Marietta, Cincinnati scored one touchdown against Marietta and succeeded in getting a tie with the college up the river. In four conference clashes, Denison fared somewhat better, winning from Case, 19-0 and scoring two points in the Ohio Wesleyan game while the Bishops scored seven. The Big Red lost its other conference contests to Miami 26 to 0, and to Muskingum 39-0. Both teams showed some improvement in their last workouts but not enough to prompt wild predictions.

A conference game that will have some bearing on the Buckeye percentage column is the Wooster-Ohio Wesleyan game at Delaware. Wooster has scored 57 points in three games with Case, Heidelberg and Mt. Union while holding its opponents scoreless. Wesleyan lost its Miami game 35-7 and won its Denison game 7-2. Ohio University has no game on its schedule.

Akron's Zippers go to Alliance to meet Mt. Union. The Buchtelites should make it four straight, but as the Mounts have been playing an in and out game, with some spirited period playing, most anything may happen. Akron beat Hiram 19-0 on Oct. 1, and two weeks later Mt. Union took the Hiram outfit to the tune of 33-0.

Muskingum is still riled over its Akron defeat, last Saturday and Otterbein will realize it has been in a football game when the boys leave New Concord for Westerville Saturday night. Otterbein like Mt. Union is hard to understand. They held Marietta to one touchdown and could do no better than win 14-6 from Baldwin Wallace.

Another cellar championship tilt will be the Kenyon-Ohio Northern meeting at Gambier. Marietta entertains Capital University on the home lot.

Daytons plays Wilmington at Dayton in a non-conference tilt and St. Xavier plays host to Providence, R. I. In the Northwestern Conference, Defiance and Bluffton, at Defiance, and Bowling Green at Findlay, will get together. Toledo, the fifth team of the Northwestern loop has no conference game scheduled.

Notre Dame-Georgia Tech Clash At South Bend Holds Grid Spotlight

JONES WILL START HOBEN AT QUARTER AGAINST DARTMOUTH

Yale Gets Last Practice for Game with Green in Bowl

New Haven, Oct. 28—Johnny Hoben, who started at quarterback for Yale against Georgia and West Point, will be calling signals for the Elis here tomorrow against Dartmouth. Brillhardt, the star who was being groomed for the full general's post, hurt his hand, and while he will be ready for use tomorrow, Coach Jones will start Hoben.

Yale's preparation for the contest with the Hanoverians came to an end late yesterday when Jones sent the first team through a dummy scrimmage in the Bowl.

All the members excepting Brillhardt were on the field in yesterday's practice. Barton Cox, who is almost completely recovered from his injury in the Brown game, was at fullback again, and will probably start at that post against Dartmouth.

Dartmouth will not hold practice today. The Green squad will stop off at Bridgeport, arriving there tonight at 6 o'clock. They will leave in buses for New Haven tomorrow morning, getting their first workouts in the Bowl a half hour before the game.

MICKEY SURE

Mickey Walker To Meet Mike McTigue in Title Go

Chicago, Oct. 28—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, is in Chicago to complete training for his ten-round battle with Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion, at the Coliseum here Tuesday night.

"I won't have any trouble with this fellow McTigue," said Mickey. "He is made to order for me. I never felt better in my life."

Mickey said he expects to enter the ring weighing 165 pounds.

McTigue is also in the midst of his training here. Observers are much impressed with his gymnasium work and it is probable that Mike will enter the ring a slight favorite to win.

HOMECOMING

Ashland College Plans Celebration To Follow Football Game

Ashland, Oct. 28—A big party will celebrate the sixth annual home coming of Ashland College here Oct. 29. A barbecue party, the main feature of the event, will take place immediately following the playing of the North Manchester football game at the stadium of the local school.

The evening following, a bonfire will hold central interest of the hundreds of old grads, former students and friends of the college that are expected to attend. Delegations are expected from all parts of Ohio as well as from Indiana and Pennsylvania.

HOW TO SPEND A NICKEL

Just 5c Will Bring Your Taste Some Downright Smoking Pleasure

Right off the bat, we want to say that a good nickel smoke is hard to believe in. No doubt you've been disappointed time and again by 5c cigars that claimed to be "worth really more." Forget the past. Here's one cigar that actually sold at a higher price for years! And only because of the volume sales it built up then, can we sell it now for a nickel!

The name? It's Havana Ribbon. And it's a real cigar, men, regardless of price. The kind you'd pick on smoking merit alone. It's so fragrant and smooth and mellow—made of ripe tobacco.

But prove it for yourself. Drop in today at the nearest cigar store and ask for a Havana Ribbon. Toss down a nickel and take one fresh from the box. And just watch yourself smile the first blue puff you blow!

NEW BANTAM

Willie Smith, South Africa, Is Signed For Three Fights

New York, Oct. 28—With the hope of clearing up the bantamweight title controversy, Matchmaker Jess McMahon announced today he had signed Willie Smith, South African bantam, for three bouts in this country, his opponents as yet unnamed. McMahon said that in the event the present title claimant, Bud Taylor, declined to meet Smith, the invader would be matched with Tony Canzoneri. Smith recently crashed the top division by defeating Teddy Baldock in England in 15 rounds.

Week-End Will See Some Top Notch Games Although Many Teams Take It Easy

Dartmouth Has Slight Edge Over Yale; Navy-Pennsylvania Game Will Draw Another Record Crowd; Michigan Will Try to Keep Slate Clean at Illinois

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—Top notch games bedeck Saturday's football card despite the fact that for many teams the day will be one of comparative rest between the drive for the critical October battles and the campaign for the all important November climatic events.

Yale and Dartmouth will struggle for supremacy in the bowl at New Haven in a game that promises to be played before another record breaking crowd of 80,000 but this will not be the east's only big game for the Navy-Pennsylvania clash at Franklin Field, Philadelphia before another array of 75,000 will hold equal attraction for the football enthusiasts.

Notre Dame and Georgia Tech will be top-liners in the west before a crowd of 55,000 to say nothing of the Michigan-Illinois game at Urbana. The Ohio State-Chicago contest at Columbus, the Syracuse-Nebraska intersectional clash at Lincoln and the great California-Southern California encounter at Berkley.

Never in the long history of Dartmouth-Yale football games has the Green trod an eleven to New Haven with brighter prospects of victory than those entertained by this year's eleven with its great backfield stars—Myles Lane and Bob Marshall—primed to do battle with Reece Caldwell, the center of the Blue eleven. Players of materially opposed types of football, Dartmouth will rely on its powerful attack as against Yale's defensive strength. Lane will be supplemented by the rugged Caldwell on the offensive. If anything the green appears to hold a slight advantage.

Pennsylvania faces the powerful Navy team with everything to gain and nothing to lose. Victory over the Middies will make history for the Quakers in their endeavors of football prestige while defeat can have a like effect. Navy, however, must win to maintain its place, not necessarily weakened by the defeat it sustained at the hands of Notre Dame.

Indiana Gets Fast

Harvard tackles Indiana in the second intersectional battle of the campaign. Pat Page, old time Chicago star, has developed a good team at Indiana and the last it has done in the conference in two years has been to the Minnesota as a day when the Gophers were admittedly over-confident and unless Harvard football has sunk to lower depths than seems possible, the Crimson of Cambridge should rout the Crimson of Indiana. Cornell and Colgate will renew their ancient rivalry at Ithaca with the odds favoring the Red eleven.

The Colgate game at New York is the first of Chick Meehan's N. Y. U. clashes and if it can be termed a practice game, it will be the only tune-up the Violet has had in the east.

Army and the Notre Dame Parker-II eleven should [illegible] football in their [illegible] West Point with the odds favoring the Westerners. Penn State [illegible] to tame that spark which [illegible] team at State College.

Tigers Have It Easy

Princeton [illegible] a mild week-end entertaining Williams and Maine at Princeton [illegible] next week's squalls and [illegible] to engage Brown with Tiger [illegible] at Providence. Maine [illegible] Cornell's Big Red [illegible] Ithaca.

Dartmouth [illegible] for a brief rest in its run of [illegible] in the Boston College game and [illegible] to [illegible] and practicing for [illegible] Holy Cross eleven at Worcester. Both Williams and Princeton [illegible] Saturday.

Ohio Wesleyan [illegible] to save something from the wreckage of its early season record at the expense of Cincinnati which, with two conference victories and a triumph over Pennsylvania to its credit, is riding high on the crest of a prosperity wave. Miami, Oberlin and Wisconsin, both excellent teams despite unexpected setbacks, [illegible] their annual battle at Minneapolis with Minnesota a favorite, Iowa plays Fred Dawson's University of Denver team at Iowa City while Iowa State encounters the Kansas Aggies at Ames.

The Nebraska-Syracuse game holds the attention of the Missouri Valley district. A victory for the Cornhuskers would not be unexpected. Missouri will play Northwestern at Evanston and Northwestern should win decisively.

West of the Rockies there's a game that will be a real battle when the California Golden Bears tackle Southern California. Honors appear [illegible] slightly favor California because of its defeat of St. Mary's recently.

Stanford plays Oregon at Palo Alto while Washington meets Whitman at Seattle and Washington State and the Oregon Aggies battle at Corvallis.

In the south, Tulane and the undefeated Georgia eleven come together at New Orleans, with Georgia having the edge. Louisiana State, also unbeaten, engages Arkansas at Shreveport, while Alabama and the Mississippi Aggies clash at Tuscaloosa. Vanderbilt and Kentucky will play at Nashville and Tennessee and Virginia will meet at Knoxville. Both Vanderbilt and Tennessee should win.

DEFENDANT IS GIVEN VERDICT

Bert R. and Douglas S. Felt Lose Suit for $750 in Jury Trial

Trial of the suit of Bert R. Felt and Douglas S. Felt against M. A. Griffis, in which the plaintiffs asked judgment for $750 claimed to be due as a commission on the sale of real estate, resulted in a verdict for the defendant in the court of common pleas, yesterday. The jury returned its verdict after deliberating 10 minutes following close of the hearing yesterday afternoon.

Taking of evidence lasted throughout the morning session and arguments of the attorneys followed the noon recess.

Although it was shown that the plaintiffs handled sale of the property in question, they failed to negotiate a loan for Griffis in accordance with terms of the contract, witnesses testified.

Property involved in the sale included a residence and garage located in Morrai.

Donithen & Donithen appeared as counsel for the plaintiffs and L. E. Myers was attorney for Griffis.

Names Drawn

Names of 10 additional petit jurors to serve during the remainder of the full term of court were drawn from the jury wheel yesterday by Clerk of Courts Harley E. Koons and Sheriff James A. Deal. They have been notified to report for duty on Nov. 1.

The list includes Charles Moore, 520 E. Center-st; Mrs. Josephine Bailey, Marion R. F. D. No. 5; A. C. Brown, Agosta, R. F. D. No. 1; Roy Epley, Marion, R. F. D. No. 6; Mrs. Julia E. Young, 473 Summit-st; Mrs. Margaret Hoagland, 212 Barnhart-st; Homer D. Rhoads, Meeker; E. G. Findling, 770 Oak Grove-av; Mrs. Ellen Conner, 372 Hance-av, and E. P. Dorward, 356 Windsor-st.

Judgment of the probate court has been affirmed by Judge Scofield of the court of common pleas in the appeal action of H. E. Thom[illegible] administrator of the estate of Elizabeth [illegible] against Leah Moore Thomas [illegible].

The suit of William [illegible] and others against Harry B. Th[illegible] and others, which also related to [illegible] of the Elizabeth Moore estate, has been dismissed at costs of plaintiff. This action was brought in common pleas court on a petition in error.

The proceedings resulted from an order of sale issued in probate court.

Serve Extra Nourishment

with a Welcome Saving

THE tempting goodness of Holsum brings more than extra nourishment to your table, it brings a welcome saving on food bills.

Mothers who serve Holsum find that it is so popular, always temptingly fresh, it takes the place of expensive foods . . . foods that offer less nourishment.

This means that Holsum brings you an extra measure of health and assures a tidy surplus for your budget.

When you order Holsum you can be sure that every appetizing morsel will be packed extra-full of healthful goodness . . . a welcome saving.

This extra-value loaf is fresh at your grocer's right now . . . it's Holsum. Ask for it.

NEW STATION PLANS NEARLY COMPLETED

C., D. & M. Expects To Get Preliminary Work Under Way Soon

Plans for the new C., D. & M. freight and passenger terminal station to be built on W. Center-st are nearing completion and it is expected that preliminary work will get under way next week, representatives of the company stated today.

Survey of the site is to be made early in the week and excavating will start shortly afterward, according to present arrangements.

Drafting of plans for the passenger station is in charge of J. Lewis Ellis, local architect, who expects to have the blue-prints ready for delivery before the close of this week.

The building, which is to include both passenger and freight departments, will measure 30 by 142 feet, with the passenger station at the front, facing Center-st.

The work will be done under direct supervision of C., D. & M. officials, which eliminates the letting of contracts and will enable the company to start the work as soon as final plans are prepared and approved.

Broadcasting Company

WASHINGTON OFFICES ARE PLANNED

To Open New Studios

The National Broadcasting Co., operators of the red and blue networks, announced today that within two months the company will open new studios and offices in Washington, D. C. The announcement was made by Merlin Hall Aylesworth, manager and operator of station WRC, Washington. About the same time as the Washington opening the National Broadcasting Co. will open offices in Chicago.

A program by the United States Army Band will be broadcast from station WJZ and the blue network at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Station WPG, Atlantic City, will broadcast a program of negro spirituals at 10:15 o'clock the same night.

All the important football games of the country Saturday will be on the air from various broadcasting stations during the afternoon. Station WLAO, Columbus, will broadcast a play by play account of the Ohio-Chicago game which began at 2 o'clock.

"High Jinkers," weekly feature from station WEAF and the red network, will be on the air at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Two selects, one vocal and the other instrumental, will entertain radio listeners of station WJZ and the blue network at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Sunday afternoon radio programs will include a symphony orchestra at 3:30 o'clock from WHAM, Rochester, and the Moscow Art orchestra from WLAF at 5:30 o'clock.

THE GUMPS — THE POWER OF GOLD — BY SIDNEY SMITH

ONE BILLION DOLLARS- MIN- THINK OF UNCLE BIM GIVING ME ALL THE MONEY TO BANISH POVERTY FROM THE WORLD- THINK WHAT IT WILL MEAN TO ALL THE POOR WIDOWS AND ORPHANS- NO MORE WORRYING ABOUT MONEY- IF THEY NEED ANYTHING- ALL THEY HAVE TO DO IS CALL AT MY OFFICE AND TRADE THEIR SORROW FOR HAPPINESS-
IT ALL SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE- ARE YOU SURE THERE IS NO MISTAKE ABOUT YOU RECEIVING ALL THAT MONEY?
MISTAKE! THE PRESIDENT TOOK ME INTO THE VAULTS AND SHOWED ME TEN MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF SAMPLES- THE BILLION IS THERE- ALL READY FOR ME TO BRING MY STEAM SHOVEL AND HAUL IT AWAY- FROM NOW ON IF ANY ONE STAYS POOR IN THIS COUNTRY IT WILL BE THEIR OWN FAULT-
IT IS THE MOST AMAZING THING I EVER HEARD-
AND WHAT AN ORGANIZATION- I'LL NEED TO DISTRIBUTE ALL THAT DOUGH- A THOUSAND DETECTIVES AND INVESTIGATORS TO FIND POOR PEOPLE WHO NEED HELP- AND HUNDREDS OF CASHIERS TO HAND OUT THE COIN- A FLOCK OF BOOKKEEPERS TO KEEP TRACK OF THE MONEY AND A REGIMENT OF SOLDIERS TO PROTECT IT AND THAT'S ONLY THE BEGINNING-
SIDNEY SMITH

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, reactionary; industrial stocks, reactionary; domestic bonds, firm; foreign bonds, steady; call money, 8½ per cent; grain, steady; copper, firm; oil, irregular; cotton, fairly steady; rubber, steady; sugar, steady; pig iron, steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, Oct. 28—All sections of the stock market gravitated to a lower level of prices today. The persistent selling of the market leaders, in the face of a $90,000,000 decrease in the volume of brokers' borrowings as revealed in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly report, unsettled the whole in the latter part of 1927.

New dips of the lowest price level of the current movement were recorded in a score or more of the active stocks, including United States steel below 133; General Motors around 126; Woolworth at 174; Frisco Railroad at 109; Timken at 112. Steel common and General Motors were soundly hammered by the bears in an effort to open up wide price gaps, and the move was successful if results are to be judged from prices on the tape.

American Steel kings in conference here today at the meeting of the iron and steel institute were quite unanimous in declaring that the present scale of market prices for steel products is too low for profitable operations. Good operation has always marked the behavior of the steel manufacturers toward each other and toward other industries according to the testimony of the heads of the prominent companies, and the outlook is not as blue as it has been pictured in recent surveys. The decline in Bethlehem Steel earnings apparently indefinitely puts off the resumption of common stock dividends. Earnings having fallen off considerably in the latter part of 1927.

market, and outside traders, either from choice or necessity, followed the example set by the professionals in Wall Street.

Levi Buckingham—Son of Emily Jacoos and R. Buckingham, born in Hancock county, May 5, 1864, departed this life at Marion City Hospital, Oct. 22, 1927, at the age of 63 years, 5 months, 17 days. He had made Marion his home for the past 20 years. He was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Catherine Semler, Nov. 27, 1887, at Findlay, O. To this union 10 children were born, nine of whom survive with widow are six daughters, Mrs. R. C. Nusser of Claridon, Mrs. C. E. Glassmeyer, Mrs. J. K. Little, Mrs. George Redmon, Mrs. De Forest Pelter, Miss Lonna Buckingham and three sons, Charles, Harry and Roy Buckingham, all of Marion, O., and a sister, Mrs. Jerry Semler of Findlay.

He had been employed at Marion Steam Shovel Co. previous to his illness.

Last rites were held from the late home, 296 Uncapher-av. in charge of Rev. Wiley S. Young, pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist Church. Burial was in Marion Cemetery.

Precious Father, he has left us,
But we hope to meet our loved one,
On that bright and happy shore,
Lonely the house, and sad the hours
Since our dear one has gone:
But oh! a brighter home than ours,
In Heaven is now his own.

Mrs. Levi Buckingham and children. *

RESERVE CORPS IS LAUDED BY SPEAKER

Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan Tells Kiwanians and Wives Branch Is Essential

Declaring it to be necessary as a result of lessons learned during the World War, Major General Dennis E. Nolan, in charge of the Fifth Corps Area with headquarters at Fort Hayes, Columbus, in an address at the annual Hallowe'en party of the Marion Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Harding last night, came to the defense of the Reserve Corps, which he said is under fire in various parts of the country.

Establishment of the reserve corps, which he termed the "mystic arm," was the result of a compromise between the house of representatives and the United States senate, when, at the close of the World War, the latter body favored the passage of a compulsory military measure, the major general pointed out. Just how near the people of the United States came to having compulsory military training, is not generally known, the speaker said.

As provided for by the adoption of the reserve corps measure, the army of the United States could be increased 27 infantry divisions and six cavalry divisions in time of war, he said. The reserve corps, if all divisions were full would supply 220,000 officers and 3,875,000 men. At the present time, however, it was pointed out by the speaker, the entire reserve corps includes 26,000 officers and 325,000 men. Upon the colleges, the United States must depend for officers in case of an emergency, the major general said.

The Kiwanis dinner last night was the annual Hallowe'en affair at which the wives of the members were guests. The ballroom, in which the dinner was held, was attractively decorated with streamers of gay-colored paper ribbons, candle paper caps and various noise-making devices, added to the Hallowe'en spirit.

Pleasing features of the program were a group of songs by Mrs. Koppe accompanied on the piano by Mr. Sheffler, both of Galion, and a group of readings by Mrs. Rodney B. Hume. In two musical readings given by Mrs. Hume she was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Harry J. Mautz.

Guests included Mrs. Dennis E. Nolan, wife of the speaker and Colonel and Mrs. Sower, of Fort Hayes, Columbus.

TO DELIVER LECTURE

Rev. A. C. Vandegriff To Speak at Green Camp Sunday Night

Green Camp, Oct. 28—Rev. A. L. Vandegriff, former pastor of the Green Camp Methodist Church and now located at West Liberty, will deliver a lecture on the Holy Land at the local church Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. Vandegriff toured in Palestine during the past summer. Part of his expenses were paid by various local organizations. It is expected that a large attendance will be present to hear him.

USE COMMON SENSE
Remember that street cars run on tracks, and the track itself is a warning. The approach of a car is another warning. While a motorman is always on the alert, he cannot read your mind. He does not know if you are going to wait prudently until the car passes or if you will "take a chance."

Our advice this season is—
A 3-button suit
by Society Brand

Of course there are any number of good styles for a young man this Fall. But if you were to approach us confidentially and ask which of them all would really make the smartest outfit, we would probably have to answer—a Three-Button Society Brand. For two good reasons—

First, the three-button style is tremendously popular with young men everywhere.

Second, when it comes to turning out such a suit with absolute perfection—with just the proper balance between swagger and restraint—well, nobody ever did equal Society Brand.

It's the correct cut that does it. Keep that point in mind. Whichever style you finally choose, make it a Society Brand, and you're sure to be well dressed!

In a wide choice of fabrics, especially Bristol Stripes—
